EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

INTRODUCTION

This report is the third in a series of studies commissioned by the World Intellectual Property Organization on copyright exceptions for libraries and archives,¹ each undertaken by Dr. Kenneth D. Crews as principal investigator. This report supersedes in full the data collections presented in the previous two studies from 2008² and 2014.³ All three studies examine the nature and diversity of statutory provisions in the copyright law of WIPO Member States and provide an analytical survey of the relevant law. The present report, however, consolidates information from the 2008 and 2014 studies, adds substantial new information and updated statutes, expands the coverage of statutory topics, and reexamines nearly every detail. For the first time, this report gathers and analyzes law related to copyright exceptions from all 188 countries that are current members of WIPO.

Of the 188 member countries, 156 of them have at least one statutory library exception, and most of the countries have multiple statutory provisions addressing a variety of library issues. Thus, of the 188 countries, 32 have no library exception in their domestic copyright statutes. These basic statistics suggest strongly that exceptions for libraries and archives are fundamental to the structure of copyright law throughout the world, and that the exceptions play an important role in facilitating library services and serving the social objectives of copyright law. The most common subject matter of the statutes is making copies (usually single copies) of works for readers, researchers, and other library users, and making copies for preservation of materials in the collections. Almost as frequently, countries have enacted statutes authorizing libraries to make copies for replacement of works that have suffered damage or loss.

These three topics long have been a mainstay of library exceptions, but recent years have brought revisions that reflect changing needs and new technologies. Most significantly, the European Union adopted a 2001 directive that authorized member countries to make digitized copies of works available to users on the premises of the library for research and study.⁴ That provision has been adopted in many of the European countries, and analogous statutes have been made a part of domestic law in countries beyond the E.U. On the other hand, relatively few countries have enacted truly distinctive law that breaks from various trends in lawmaking to address newly emerging problem areas at the border between copyright and digital technologies. Among the countries that have enacted extensive and original statutes in recent years are Canada, the Russian Federation, and the United Kingdom.

While few countries have enacted comparable major changes, at any given time many countries are either revising their library exceptions or adopting entirely new copyright acts. Indeed, Mauritius and Seychelles adopted wholly new copyright acts in 2014. Revisions of selected

Crews, Study on Copyright Limitations and Exceptions for Libraries and Archives, World Intellectual Property Organization, Standing Committee on Copyright and Related Rights, Seventeenth Session (Geneva, Switzerland: 2008), available at http://www.wipo.int/meetings/en/doc_details.jsp?doc_id=109192. The 2008 study includes a lengthy (approximately 55 pages) introduction that surveys and analyzes the various statutes that were included in that report. Although current research would change many details, the general principles and findings set forth in the introduction are relevant today and will be of great interest to researchers and officials needing to explore the issues more fully.

copyright statutes have occurred during just the last several months in numerous European countries⁵ and in Canada, Mexico, Peru, and Singapore. Research on worldwide copyright developments is a dynamic pursuit.

Copyright statutes also reflect the tension that can exist among a country's competing objectives. The details of the library exceptions reveal much about the relationship of copyright law to library services. They also can manifest a compromise among cultural, historical, and economic objectives, typically by permitting libraries to make socially beneficial uses of copyrighted works, while setting limits and conditions aimed at protecting the interests of copyright owners, publishers, and other rightsholders. This report offers the raw data of statutes that can allow for a deeper understanding of the objectives and alternatives for developing even more effective law in the future.

TERMINOLOGY

The terms and labels employed in the examination of copyright and copyright exceptions can have profound implications. This report employs many of the same terms used in the earlier studies, and some merit repeating here:

- “Library” and “librarian”: At least in this introductory section, these terms may be used to include not only libraries and librarians, but also archives and archivists. The differences between libraries and archives are many and important. For the sake of efficiency of language, this report may occasionally use the term “library” to address both types of institutions. However, the charts do not generalize and do not shortcut the language. If the statute encompasses libraries and archives, or museums and any other institution, the charts reflect that detail. Similarly, if the statute references only “libraries,” so does the chart.
- “Copyright”: The scope and character of copyright law is changing in many countries. For this report, the term “copyright” will refer to the legal rights associated with a protected work of any type. Those rights will most often encompass the so-called “economic rights” of reproduction and the like. Where appropriate, this report will make occasional mention of moral rights and neighboring rights (referred to in some jurisdictions as “related rights”).
- “Exception”: This report is fundamentally about copyright limitations and exceptions. The language of the law and of legal literature will sometimes use other labels, including “exemptions,” or “limitations on rights of copyright owners,” or “rights of copyright users.” This report takes no position on the appropriateness of any label, other than selecting “exception” for purposes of clarity and simplicity. The particular exceptions applicable explicitly to libraries (and archives) are “library exceptions.”⁶

The working definition of a “library exception” for this report presumes that the library or other institution is permitted by the statute to use the work without permission from the author, copyright owner, or any other party, and that no payment or other remuneration is due for the use. Therefore, if the statute expressly makes the statement that the use is allowed without permission or payment, those elements of the statute may not be reiterated in the charts. Conversely, if the statute states that application of the exception is conditioned on permission or payment, or participation in a licensing system, that statutory requirement is included in the charts.

SCOPE OF THE STUDY

This study focuses on those provisions of domestic copyright legislation that establish explicit copyright exceptions applicable to libraries in general or to certain types of libraries in broad categories. The study does not systematically encompass statutes applicable only to individually named libraries or to small and limited groups, such as state libraries or national libraries.

The research also encompasses law related to the issue of circumvention of technological protection systems, principally to underscore any provisions that might allow libraries or archives to engage in circumvention or other acts, that would be otherwise prohibited, in fulfillment of their services or to exercise the benefits of a library exception when the work in question is behind the protection of technological measures.

If a country's law includes no library exception, that fact is noted at the outset of that country's charts.⁷ Otherwise, detailed charts break out the elements of statutes on topics such as:

- General Library Exception. Some countries have a broad and flexible provision that permits a library or other institution to make copies of works, usually subject to various conditions, but not limited to particular purposes. The chart below notes the number of countries that have only a general library exception. Many more countries have a general exception together with other provisions, but it is especially insightful to note those countries rely solely on a general exception, without the benefit of a more specific library statute.
- Copies for Research and Study. One of the most common statutes within this study is the provision permitting a library or other institution to make copies (usually single copies) at the request of a user, often specifically for that person's research or private study. This category of statutes includes any provision that authorizes the library to make a copy of a work for a user, whether "research and study" is noted in the statute or not.
- Making Available. The European Union directive of 2001, as described above, led many E.U. countries to adopt a statute allowing libraries to make digital works available to users on the premises, usually for their research or study. The chart below notes that 28 countries have adopted such a statute. It worth noting that 11 of those countries are not in the European Union.

⁷ This report centers on the copyright statutes (and in a few instances, regulations adopted pursuant to statutory authority) of each country. Hence, the standard for having "no exception" is whether the copyright legislation, as enacted by the appropriate lawmaking body in each country, includes a copyright exception explicitly applicable to libraries. On the other hand, some countries have no statutory exception, but they are members of multinational instruments that include copyright exceptions for libraries. The Cartagena Agreement and the Bangui Agreement are examples, and they are cited with each appropriate country. In order to treat all countries consistently throughout this study, a country is treated as having no library exception if it does not have such a provision in its own domestic law.

- Copies for Preservation or Replacement. Also relatively common are statutes that authorize the library to make copies of works for preservation, without necessarily requiring that the work first be at risk. Almost as common are statutes authorizing libraries to replace existing copies in the collection, or in the collection of another library, if the work is lost, damaged, deteriorated, or otherwise in jeopardy.
- Interlibrary Loan or Document Supply. Less common are statutes that permit libraries to make copies of works to provide to other libraries for the libraries' use or for delivery to users at their request.
- Anti-circumvention. Many countries have enacted provisions barring the circumvention of technological protection measures. Some of those countries also have enacted certain exemptions. This study identifies countries that have statutory exemptions explicitly applicable to libraries.

The charts often go far beyond this list of leading topics. Some countries have enacted statutes on specialized needs of libraries, and those statutes are included here in detail. Nearly every country has other exceptions and copyright provisions that might be important to libraries, even if the statute is not explicitly about libraries. Thus, the "Miscellaneous" chart for each country often includes brief references to statutes on matters such as personal copying, public lending, fair dealing, the needs of disabled persons, and much more. These mentions are hardly comprehensive. They are little more than summaries of other statutes that might be useful to libraries or might be interesting points for further research; they are also not the result of exhaustive research and are not included as a consistent matter across all countries throughout the report. Yet even as mere summaries of potentially relevant law, they demonstrate the expanding diversity of copyright exceptions and the growing complexity and importance of defining the interface between legal protection and copyright exceptions.

METHODOLOGY

While this 2015 report supersedes the 2008 and 2014 studies, the significance of the earlier studies for this report is unmistakable. Preparation of this report began with a consolidation of the charts from the two existing reports and identification of remaining gaps and deficiencies. The next step was an exhaustive review of the resources available on WIPO Lex, a vast resource of intellectual property statutes and other sources from all of the WIPO member countries (see www.wipo.int/wipolex/en/). The WIPO Lex findings were supplemented, replaced, or confirmed through rigorous legal research, including online and database searches, library visits, and contacts with copyright offices and specialists in some countries. Indeed, after following these research steps, the sources were further checked by visiting the website of the copyright office for each country, working principally from the list provided by WIPO (see www.wipo.int/directory/en/urls.jsp). In general, the preference has been to cite to a statutory source available on WIPO Lex, but if a different and preferable source became available, it is used here.

The research objective has been to find a reliable and current source for the library exceptions in each country. The source ultimately cited may not be an “official” version of a country’s statute, but all indications from the research were that the source was current on the relevant issues, and the source and translation were reliable. A general preference was to find a version that had been translated into English, although the researcher has the ability to make original translations from some languages. Other translations were accomplished or verified through application of the translation tool on WIPO Lex or Google Translate. In other instances, colleagues in various countries generously offered their skills and insights, and their important contributions are noted in the acknowledgements below.

The statutes used in the analysis are cited at the end of each country's charts. Punctuation and spelling are edited for consistency throughout, except when included in a quotation. The names of countries are consistent with the WIPO list of Member States (see www.wipo.int/members/en/). Dates have been converted to a consistent format of day-month-year. The dates at the end of each country's entry in the report indicate the date in 2015 when the chart was last edited. The entry may also include earlier dates, indicating when the charts had been last edited for inclusion in one or both of the previous WIPO studies.

Colleagues at WIPO were instrumental in making this study possible and comprehensive. WIPO Lex has evolved in recent years into an extraordinary database of intellectual property law. My deepest thanks to everyone at WIPO who opened the way for WIPO Lex to grow, and who developed it into a well-organized, searchable, and expansive collection of laws. Special thanks are due to Michele Woods and Geidy Lung, who patiently supported this project at every step. I had the privilege of presenting some findings to the SCCR meeting in Geneva in December 2014, and I thank Director General Francis Gurry, Anne Leer, and Martin Moscoso Villacorta for their guidance and leadership throughout.

I continue to appreciate the work of my research assistants on the two previous studies: Michelle Choe, now with the U.S. Copyright Office, and Trina Kissel Taylor, with the firm of Faegre Baker Daniels in Denver, Colorado. Their contributions were in earlier years, but their influence often appears today in the pages of this report. Our robust discussions about statutory interpretation continue to shape my evaluation of the library exceptions.

Special thanks are due to my associates at Columbia Law School, especially the extraordinary professionals in the law library and Vice Dean Avery W. Katz. I also thank my law colleagues at Gipson Hoffman & Pancione for their patience and support as I met project deadlines and flew to distant places. I am grateful for this opportunity, and I welcome comments and updated information from all readers.

LIBRARY EXCEPTIONS OF THE WORLD

AFGHANISTAN

Replacement
Who can copy?	Library or archive.		Art. 40(3)
	Conditions:	The statute does not explicitly state that a library or archive is the party authorized to act, suggesting that an agent or other party may make the copy for the stated library purposes.
What can be copied?	A work that is in the permanent collection of another similar library or archive.
	Conditions:	By implication, the work is, or has been, in the collection of the library or archive making the copy.
		It is impossible to obtain such a copy under reasonable conditions.
Purpose of the copy?	To replace, when necessary, a copy that is lost, destroyed, or rendered unusable in the collections of the other library.
	Conditions:	None.
Medium of the copy?	Not specified.
Other provisions?	The act of reproduction or photocopy is an isolated, one-time occurring case.

Preservation
Who can copy?	Library or archive.		Art. 40(3)
	Conditions:	The statute does not explicitly state that a library or archive is the party authorized to act, suggesting that an agent or other party may make the copy for the stated library purposes.
What can be copied?	Not specified.
	Conditions:	Concept of preservation implies that the work is, or has been, in the collection of the library or archive.
		It is impossible to obtain such a copy under reasonable conditions.
Purpose of the copy?	To preserve the original copy.
	Conditions:	None.
Medium of the copy?	Not specified.
Other provisions?	The act of reproduction or photocopy is an isolated, one-time occurring case.

Research or Study
Who can copy?	Library or archive.		Art. 40(2)
	Conditions:	None.
What can be copied?	Statute refers to "copying and replication of a

	Work” but later refers to a “published article” that is “a summary or an extract of the Work.”
	Conditions: See definition of “Work.”
Purpose of the copy?	To satisfy personal needs.
	Conditions: The library or archive makes sure that the copy will be used solely for the purposes of study, scholarship, or research.
	The user does not make direct or indirect commercial gains.
Medium of the copy?	Not specified.
Other provisions?	If the copying is repeated, each occurrence should be on a separate and unrelated occasion.
	This provision applies if there is no collective license available for reproduction by a competent authority in the collective management of rights, of which the library or archive is, or should be, aware.

Anti-Circumvention of Technological Protection Measures
Circumvention provisions?	Criminal penalties for certain acts of manufacturing or importing devices or instruments.	Art. 30
Prohibited Acts?	The Act of Circumvention?	No. The crime is generally limited to import or manufacture with the intent to use the devices to deactivate protections against reproducing works or controlling reception of broadcast transmissions.
	Dealing in Devices?	Yes.
	Providing Services?	No.
Access Control or Owner’s Rights Control?	Both.
Exemptions that could be used by libraries?	None.

Miscellaneous
Personal Copying	Limited right of a natural person to reproduce a work for personal use.	Art. 39(1)
Educational Copying	Single copies of short work or extracts of works with restrictions for teaching purposes.	Art. 40(1)
Berne Appendix	Any citizen can apply to the Ministry of Information and Culture for authority to translate and publish certain works for education. These provisions reflect many details of the Berne Appendix.	Art. 44
Definition	“Work” is defined as “a phenomenon that is created through knowledge, art or the initiative of the creator without taking into account the way that it is said, appeared or created.”	Art. 3
Source	Law on the Support of the Right of Authors, Composers, Artists, and Researchers (Copyright Law) of Afghanistan, No.

ALBANIA

Library Use
Who can copy?	Libraries.	Art. 26(f)
	Conditions: None.
What can be copied?	Works located in public libraries.
	Conditions: None.
Purpose of the copy?	For individual usage within the library environment.
	For the services of the library.
	Conditions: None.
Medium of the copy?	Photocopying.
Other provisions?	The photocopying is permitted as long as usage does not prejudice the copyright or the right holders' rights in the work. See preamble of Article 26.

Anti-Circumvention of Technological Protection Measures
Circumvention provisions?	None.

Miscellaneous
Personal Copying	Permits reproduction of works for private use, if does not prejudice the commercial exploitation of the work.	Art. 26(d)
Cultural Advertisement	Reproduction and rented use is permissible for cultural advertisement under certain conditions	Art. 28

ALGERIA

Research or Study
Who can copy?	Libraries and document keeping centers.	Art. 45
	Conditions: None.
What can be copied?	Works can be reproduced in article form.
	Works can be reproduced into another summarized work.
	Excerpts from written works, with or without ornamentation (illustrations).
	Conditions: The work must be published in a collection of works, newspaper volumes, or periodicals.
	Computer programs are excluded.
Purpose of the copy?	For educational, academic research, or personal purposes, by request of a natural person.
	Conditions: None.
Medium of the copy?	Not specified.
Other Provisions?	The reproduction process must be an isolated and non-recurring act.
	The reproduction is not permitted if the National Bureau for Copyrights & Neighboring Rights has granted a collective license authorizing such reproduction.

Supplying Copies to Other Libraries
Who can copy?	Libraries and document keeping centers.	Art. 46
	Conditions: The institutions must not aim at making direct or indirect commercial profits.
What can be copied?	Works.
	Conditions: It must be impossible to obtain a copy under reasonable conditions.
Purpose of the copy?	To fulfill requests from other libraries and document keeping centers.
	Conditions: None.
Medium of the copy?	Not specified.
Other Provisions?	The reproduction process must be isolated and non-recurring.

Preservation and Replacement
Who can copy?	Libraries and document keeping centers.	Art. 46
	Conditions: The institutions must not aim at making direct or indirect commercial profits.
What can be copied?	Works.
	Conditions: It must be impossible to obtain a copy under reasonable conditions.
Purpose of the copy?	To maintain (preserve) the work.

	To replace a work that is damaged, lost, or void.
	Conditions: None.
Medium of the copy?	Not specified.
Other Provisions?	The reproduction process must be isolated and non-recurring.

Circumvention provisions?	None.

	Conditions:	None.
What can be copied?	Articles in periodicals, including accompanying illustrations and the typographical arrangement.
	Reasonable proportions of published literary, dramatic, or musical works that are not articles in periodicals, including accompanying illustrations and the typographical arrangement.
	Conditions:	No person shall be furnished with more than one copy of the same article or with copies of more than one article contained in the same issue of a periodical. No person shall be furnished with more than one copy of the same material of a work other than an article.

Purpose of the copy?	For research or private study.
	Conditions:	Persons requesting copies must satisfy the librarian or archivist that they require copies solely for research or private study.
Medium of the copy?	Any. See definition of “copy” below.
Other provisions?	Persons to whom copies are supplied are required to pay a sum not less than the cost attributable to the production, including a contribution to the general expenses of the library or archive.

Research or Study (Unpublished Works)
Who can copy?	Librarians of prescribed libraries and archives.		§ 65
	Conditions:	None.
What can be copied?	Whole or parts of unpublished literary, dramatic, or musical works from documents in the library or archive, including accompanying illustrations.
	Conditions:	No person may be furnished with any more than one copy of the same material.
		A copy may not be made if the copyright owner has prohibited copying of the work and at the time of copying the librarian ought to have been aware of that fact.
		A copy may not be made if the work was published before the document was deposited in the library or archive.
Purpose of the copy?	For research or private study.
	Conditions:	Persons requesting copies must satisfy the librarian or archivist that they require copies for the permitted purposes.
Medium of the copy?	Any. See definition of “copy” below.
Other provisions?	Persons to whom copies are supplied are required to pay a sum not less than the cost attributable to the production, including a contribution to the general expenses of the library or archive.

Exemptions that could be used by libraries?	No explicit exemptions exist for circumvention.

Miscellaneous
Librarian	In Sections 62 to 65, references to the librarian or archivist include references to a person acting on his or her behalf.	§ 61(1)
Declarations	Regulations may provide that a librarian or archivist, who pursuant to Sections 62 and 65 is required to be satisfied as to a matter before making or supplying a copy of a work, is entitled to rely on a declaration as to that matter, signed by the person requesting the copy, unless he is aware that the declaration is false in any material particular; and in such cases as may be prescribed, shall not make or supply a copy to any person in the absence of a declaration by that person. Where a person requesting a copy makes a declaration that is false in a material particular and is supplied with a copy which would have been an infringing copy if made by him, that person shall be liable for infringement of copyright as if he had reproduced the copy himself, and the copy supplied shall be treated as an infringing copy.	§ 61(2) – (3)
Defined Terms	“Article” in the context of an article in a periodical includes an item of any description. “Copy” in relation to – (a) a work that is a literary, dramatic, musical, or artistic work, means a reproduction of the work in any material form and, in respect of an artistic work, includes a reproduction in three-dimensions if the artistic work is a two-dimensional work and a reproduction in two-dimensions if the artistic work is a three-dimensional work; (b) a work that is a film, television broadcast, or cable	§ 2

	program, includes a photograph of the whole or any substantial part of any image forming part of the film, broadcast or cable program; (c) a work that is a typographical arrangement of a published edition, means a facsimile copy of the arrangement; and (d) any description of work, includes a copy of the work that is transient or incidental to some other use of the work, and references to the copying of a work of any description shall be construed to include a reference to storing the work in any medium by electronic means.
Private Study	Permits fair dealing with a literary, dramatic, musical, or artistic work for purposes of research or private study.	§ 52
Fair Dealing	Establishes factors for determining fair dealing and sets forth four factors that are nearly identical to fair use factors.	§ 54
Educational Uses	Series of provisions on the use of works for education.	§§ 56 to 60

AUSTRALIA

Preservation, Replacement, and Library Administration
Who can copy?	Officers in charge of libraries and archives, or persons acting on behalf of the officers.		§ 51A
	Conditions:	Includes volunteers assisting with the care or control of the collection. (§ 51A(6))
What can be copied?	Works in manuscript form held in the collection of the library or archive.
	Original artistic works held in the collection of the library or archive.
	Published works held in the collection of the library or archive.
	Works held in the collection of the library or archive.
	Conditions:	This provision permits both reproduction and communication. In the case of a published work, an officer of the library or archives must, after a reasonable investigation, make a declaration stating that the officer is satisfied that a copy (not a second-hand copy) of the work, or of the edition of the work in the collection, cannot be obtained within a reasonable time at an ordinary commercial price, and if a copy of another edition can be so obtained, the declaration must state why the reproduction should be made from the work in the collection.⁸ Different types of works may be copied only for the purposes specified below.
Purpose of the copy?	For preservation or replacement or research in another library or for administrative purposes.
	Conditions:	In the case of a manuscript or original artistic work, copying may be for the purpose of preserving the work against loss or damage or for research carried out at the library or archives or at another library or archives. In the case of a published work, it may be copied for purposes of replacement if the work has been damaged or deteriorated, or if it has

	been lost or stolen. In the case of an original artistic work, if following the preservation copying the original has been lost or has deteriorated, or if the original has become unstable and cannot be displayed without significant risk of deterioration, the preservation copy may be communicated by making it available online through a computer terminal on the premises and on which a user cannot make an electronic copy or a hardcopy or communicate the reproduction. (§§ 51A(3A) & (3B)) In the case of any work, it may be copied for administrative purposes. (§ 51A(2)) These copies may also be communicated to officers of the library or archives online through a computer terminal on the premises. (§ 51A(3)) Administrative purposes means purposes directly related to the care or control of the collection. (§ 51A(6))
Medium of the copy?	Any.
Other provisions?	Notation: At or about the time the reproduction is made under § 51A, there must be made on the reproduction a notation stating that the reproduction was made on behalf of the institution and specifying the date on which the reproduction was made. (§ 203H(1))
	Publication: In the case of an unpublished work reproduced and supplied to another library or archives for research, the supply or communication by the library or archives does not constitute publication of the work. (§ 51A(5))
	Application to sound recordings and film: Section 110B is nearly identical to § 51A, except it applies to the copying of a sound recording or a cinematographic film. Section 110B includes a few distinctive differences, notably mentioning that the reproduction is not an infringement of the work or of other subject-matter included in the work. For the requirement of notices on these copies, see § 203H(2).

Preservation by Cultural Institutions
Who can copy?	Authorized officers of libraries and archives.	§ 51B
	Conditions: The library or archives must, under state or national laws, have the function of maintaining the collection, or the library or archives is prescribed under regulations.

What can be copied?	Manuscripts.
	Original artistic works.
	Published works.
	Conditions:	The officer must be satisfied that the work is of historical or cultural significance to Australia.
		In the case of a manuscript, the officer may make up to three reproductions.
		In the case of an original artistic work, the officer may make up to three comprehensive photographic reproductions from the original.
		In the case of an original artistic work, the officer must be satisfied that a photographic reproduction (not a second-hand reproduction) cannot be obtained within a reasonable time at an ordinary commercial price.
In the case of a published work, an officer may make up to three reproductions of the work from the copy in the collections.
In the case of a published work, an officer of the library or archives must be satisfied, after a reasonable investigation, that a copy (not a second-hand copy) of the work, or of the edition of the work in the collection, cannot be obtained within a reasonable time at an ordinary commercial price, and if a copy of another edition can be so obtained, the officer is satisfied that it is appropriate to make the reproduction from the work in the collection.
Purpose of the copy?	For preservation against loss or deterioration.
	Conditions:	None.
Other provisions?	Reasonable time and ordinary price: For purposes of determining whether a copy can be obtained within a reasonable time at an ordinary commercial price, the officer must take into account whether an electronic copy of the work or edition can be so obtained. (§ 51B(5))
	Limitation: § 51B does not limit rights under other library sections, and those sections do not limit § 51B. (§ 51B(6))
	Application to sound recordings and film: § 110BA is nearly identical to § 51B, except it applies to the copying of a sound recording or a cinematographic film. Section 110BA includes some distinctive provisions, notably providing separate treatment for copying published versions of the work and for copying an unpublished version or a “first record” or first copy of a film.

	Application to published editions: § 112AA is nearly identical to § 51B, except it applies to the copying of a published edition of any work in the collection. § 112AA includes some distinctive provisions, notably its specific application to the making of a facsimile reproduction and the protection against infringement of any works in the published edition.

Research or Study (Published Works)
Who can copy?	Authorized officers of libraries and archives.	§ 49(1)
	Conditions: For purposes of § 49, a library means a library, all or part of whose collection is accessible to members of the public directly or through interlibrary loan. For purposes of § 49, an archives means an archives, all or part of whose collection is accessible to members of the public.
What can be copied?	Whole or parts of articles contained in periodical publications held in the collection of the institution.	§ 49(1); § 49 (2A)
	Whole or parts of published works other than articles contained in periodical publications held in the collection of the institution.
	Conditions:
	It is not an infringement to communicate an article or work in accordance with § 49(2), (2C), and (5A). (§ 49(7B))
	Only a single copy can be made (“a reproduction”).
Two or more articles from the same periodical publication may not be copied unless the articles are requested for the same research or course of study. (§ 49(4))
A whole work (other than an article in a periodical) or more than a reasonable portion of a work cannot be copied, unless the work is from the collections of the library or archives, and the authorized officer has after reasonable investigation made a declaration stating that the officer is satisfied that a reproduction (not being a second-hand reproduction) of the work cannot be obtained within a reasonable time at an ordinary commercial price. (§ 49(5)) (Note: Reasonable portion is determined in accordance with § 10(1)).

		In determining whether a copy is available within a reasonable time and at an ordinary commercial price, the authorized officer must take into account: (a) the time that the user requires the copy; (b) the time within which a reproduction at an ordinary commercial price could be delivered to the person; and (c) whether an electronic reproduction can be obtained within a reasonable time and at an ordinary commercial price. (§ 49(5AB))
		A note accompanying the statutes states that the reproduction can be made from another reproduction held in the library because it was made pursuant to § 51A(1) to replace a work.
Purpose of the copy?	For research or study and supply to user, requested by the user in writing.		§ 49(1); § 49(2)
	Conditions:	The copy may be supplied only to the person requesting the reproduction. (§§ 49(6) & (7)) This requirement may be excluded by regulation. (§ 49(8)) (Note: Special rules apply when making electronic reproductions, § 49(7A).)
		The user must furnish to the officer in charge of the library or archives a signed declaration stating that the user requires the reproduction for research or study and for no other purpose, and that the user has not previously been supplied with a copy of the same work by the library or archives. ⁹ Declarations pursuant to § 49 are further detailed at § 10(3)(ma).
		The declaration must not contain any statement that the authorized officer of the library or archives knows to be untrue in any material respect. (§ 49(2))
Purpose of the copy?	For research or study and supply to a user at a remote location, upon request by a person to an authorized officer of the institution. (See also § 49(2C)(a))		§ 49 (2A); § 49 (2C)
	Conditions:	The user makes a declaration to an authorized officer of a library or archives that the user requires the

(See also § 49(2C)(a)) The user must make a declaration that the user has not previously been supplied with a copy of the same work by the library or archives. Because of the remoteness of the user's location, the user cannot conveniently furnish a declaration (consistent with the requirements of § 49(1)) by the time that the user needs the reproduction. The request or declaration made by the user pursuant to § 49(2A) are not required to be in writing. (§ 49(2B)) The authorized officer makes a declaration setting out the particulars of the request and declaration from the user, and stating that the user's declaration does not contain any statement that, to the knowledge of the officer, is untrue in any material respect regarding the purpose of the copy and whether the user has previously received a copy of the work, and that the officer is satisfied that the user's declaration is true with respect to the remoteness of the user's location. (§ 49(2C)(b))
Other provisions?	Communication of Electronic Works: If an article contained in a periodical publication or other published work is acquired in electronic form as part of the library or archives collection, the officer in charge of the library or archives may make it available online within the premises of the library or archives in such a manner that users cannot, by using any equipment supplied by the library or archives make an electronic reproduction of the work or communicate it. Cost: The copying authorized by this section is not permitted if the library or archives charges for making and supplying the reproduction, and the amount charged exceeds the cost of making and supplying the reproduction. Notation: At or about the time the reproduction is made under § 49, there must be made on the reproduction a notation stating that the reproduction was made on behalf of the institution and specifying the date on which the reproduction was made. (§ 203H(1))	§ 49 (5A) § 49(3)

Research or Study or View to Publication (Unpublished Works)

	Conditions: None.
What can be copied?	Unpublished literary, dramatic, musical, or artistic works.
	Conditions:	The work must be still under copyright, and copying must occur more than fifty years after the end of the calendar year in which the author died.
		Either a copy of the work must be kept in the collection of the library or archives, or in the case of a literary, dramatic, or musical work, the manuscript of the work must be kept in the collection of the library or archives.
		The copy of the work or the manuscript in the collections must be open to public inspection, subject to any regulations governing that collection.
Purpose of the copy?	Research or study, or with a view to publication.
	Conditions:	If the reproduction is made by an officer of the library or archives, then the reproduction may be supplied only to a person who satisfies the officer that the he or she requires the reproduction for the permitted purpose and will not use it for any other purpose.
Other provisions?	This statute also permits communication of the reproduction.
	Incorporation of a work: If a new publication of a literary, dramatic, or musical work incorporates a work to which § 51(1) applies, that publication is not an infringement or unauthorized publication of the earlier work. This right is conditioned on giving a prescribed notice and other requirements, but it extends to subsequent publication of the work and other uses.
	Application to sound recordings and film: § 110A is nearly identical to § 51, except it applies to the copying of a sound recording or a cinematographic film being copied more than fifty years after the work was made.

Research or Study (Unpublished Theses)		§ 51(2)
Who can copy?	Officers in charge of libraries and archives, or persons acting on their behalf.

	Conditions:	None.
What can be copied?	Unpublished theses or other similar literary works kept in the library of a university or other similar institution or an archive.
	Conditions:	None.
Purpose of the copy?	For research or study.
	Conditions:	The reproduction may be supplied to a person who satisfies an authorized officer of the library or archives that the person requires the reproduction for the permitted purposes.
Medium of the copy?	Not specified.
Other provisions?	Although not stated explicitly in the statute, § 51(1) apparently could also apply to an unpublished thesis.

Supplying Copies to Other Libraries
Who can copy?	Officers in charge of libraries and archives, or persons acting on their behalf.		§ 50(2); § 50 (10)
	Conditions:	For purposes of § 50, a library means a library, all or part of whose collection is accessible to members of the public directly or through interlibrary loan.
		For purposes of § 50, an archives means an archives, all or part of whose collection is accessible to members of the public.
What can be copied?	Whole or parts of articles contained in periodical publications held in the collection of the institution.		§ 50(1); § 50(7)
	Whole or parts of published works, other than articles contained in periodical publications, held in the collection of the institution.
	Conditions:	Only a single copy can be made (“a reproduction”).
		A reproduction of the same item may not be supplied to a library on more than one occasion for inclusion in the library’s collection, unless as soon as practicable after making the request, the receiving library makes a declaration stating the particulars of the request and stating that the previous reproduction has been lost, destroyed, or damaged. ¹⁰ (§ 50(7))
Two or more articles may not be copied from the same periodical publication that have been requested

		for the same purpose, unless the articles are requested under § 49 for the same research or course of study. (§ 50(8))
		A whole work (other than an article in a periodical) or more than a reasonable portion of a work may not be copied, if the reproduction is made from a hardcopy form of the work, unless an authorized officer of the library making the request has as soon as practicable after the request makes a declaration stating the particulars of the request and stating that after reasonable investigation the officer is satisfied that a copy (not being a second-hand copy) of the work cannot be obtained within a reasonable time at an ordinary commercial price. (§ 50(7A)) (Note: Reasonable portion is determined in accordance with § 10(1)).

	Notation: At or about the time the reproduction is made under § 50, there must be made on the reproduction a notation stating that the reproduction was made on behalf of the institution and specifying the date on which the reproduction was made. (§ 203H(1))

Anti-Circumvention of Technological Protection Measures
Circumvention provisions?	Yes.
Prohibited Acts?	The Act of Circumvention?	The act of circumvention is prohibited.	§ 116 AN(1)
	Dealing in Devices?	Manufacturing, importing, distributing, offering, providing, or communicating a circumvention device is prohibited.	§ 116 AO(1)
	Providing Services?	Providing or offering a circumvention service is prohibited.	§ 116 AP(1)
Access Control or Owner's Rights Control?	Both. The provisions relate to a device, product, technology, or component (including a computer program) that is used by or on behalf of the rightsholder in connection with the exercise of the copyright and that in the normal course of operation controls access to the work.		§ 10(1)
Exemptions that could be used by libraries?	The act of circumvention is not prohibited if the circumvention is done by a library, archives, or educational institution; the act is done for the sole purpose of making an acquisition decision in relation to the work; and the work is not otherwise available to the institution when the act is done.		§ 116 AN (8)
	The act of circumvention is not prohibited if a person's act of circumvention is to enable the person to do an act that will not infringe the copyright and the doing of the act is prescribed by regulations.		§ 116 AN(9)

Miscellaneous
Fair Dealing	In addition to the library exceptions, the fair dealing exception can apply to some uses of copyrighted works for specific purposes, including research and study.	§ 40; § 103C
Library or Archives	References to a body administering a library or archives shall be a reference to the body (whether incorporated or not), or the person (including the Crown) having ultimate responsibility for the administration of the library or archives.	§ 10 (3)(b)
Libraries for Profit	A library shall not be taken to be established or conducted for profit by reason only that the library is owned by a person carrying on business for	§ 18 profit.

Library Administration	A body administering a library or archives may use a copyrighted work for purposes of maintaining or operating the library or archives, if the use is limited to a special case, does not conflict with a normal exploitation of the work, and the use does not unreasonably prejudice the legitimate interests of the owner.	§ 200AB
Unsupervised Machines	When a person makes an infringing copy of a work, or part of a work, on a machine installed at a library or archives, with approval of and administering body or the library or archives, or installed outside the premises for the convenience of user of the library or archives, then neither the body administering the library or archives, nor the officer in charge of the library or archives shall be taken to have authorized the making of the copy by reason only that the copy was made on that machine. The library or archive must post a notice on or in close proximity to the machine, and the notice must be of the prescribed dimensions and in accordance with the form. Section 104B is nearly identical to Section 39A, but it specifically applies to infringing copies of an audiovisual item or a published edition of a work.	§ 39A; § 104B
Australian Archives	Provision permits the Australian Archives to make copies of works in the collection for the needs of the Archives or for a regional office of the Archives. This provision is outside the scope of this study, so the details are not summarized here.	§ 51AA
Defined Terms	The statute offers additional detailed definitions not included within this chart for the following terms: educational purpose, periodical publication, and article.	§ 10(1); § 10(4)
	“Archives” means Archival material in the custody of the Australian Archives (or three other specifically named governmental archives) or a collection of documents or other material by virtue of § 10(4). That subsection provides that the definition of “archives” includes a collection of documents or other material of historical significance or public interest that is in the custody of a body, whether incorporated or unincorporated, is being maintained by the body for the purpose of conserving and preserving those documents or other material, and the body does not maintain and operate the collection for the purpose of deriving a profit. (The version of the Australian statutes examined for this project provides by way of example that museums and galleries would be included in this definition.)
	“Copy” in relation to a cinematographic film means any article or thing in which the visual images or sounds comprising the film are embodied.
	“Work” means a literary, dramatic, musical, or

Miscellaneous
Agents of Librarians and Archivists	In Sections 68 to 71, references to a librarian or archivist include references to a person working on his or her behalf.	§ 67(1)
Definition	“Copy” is defined in part as an object in which a work is fixed by any method now known or later developed.	§ 2
Fair Dealing	In determining whether a use is fair dealing, the court shall take account of relevant factors, and the statute lists four factors that are nearly identical to the factors of fair use in U.S. law.	§ 60
Fair Dealing Applications	Fair dealing can apply to research, private study, scholarship, or teaching.	§ 58
Educational Uses	Permits various uses of works for education.	§§ 62 to 66
Declarations	Regulations made by the Minister may provide that a librarian or archivist who, pursuant to Sections 68-71, is required to be satisfied as to a matter before making or supplying a copy or phonorecord of a work is entitled to rely on a declaration as to that matter signed by the person requesting the copy or phonorecord, unless he is aware that the declaration is false in any material particular; and in such cases as may be prescribed, shall not make or supply a copy or phonorecord to any person in the absence of a declaration by that person. Where a person requesting a copy or phonorecord makes a declaration that is false in a material particular and is supplied with a copy or phonorecord which would have been an infringing copy or phonorecord if made by him, that person shall be liable for infringement of copyright as if he had reproduced the copy or phonorecord himself,	§ 67 and the copy or phonorecord supplied shall be treated as an infringing copy or phonorecord.

Agents of Librarians and Archivists	In Sections 61 to 64, references to a librarian or archivist include references to a person working on his or her behalf.	§ 60(1)
Additional Conditions	The statutes refer to compliance with “prescribed conditions” and often provide that the conditions “shall include” some listed specifics. The Ministry of Culture has authority to make regulations prescribing anything that is authorized or required to be prescribed.	§ 148
Declarations	Regulations may provide that where a librarian or archivist is required to be satisfied as to a matter before making or supplying a copy, the librarian or archivist is entitled to rely on a signed declaration by the person making the request, unless the librarian or archivist is aware that it is false in any material respect. Where prescribed, a librarian or archivist shall not make or supply a copy for any person in the absence of a declaration by that person. If the declaration is false in a material respect, and if the copy supplied by the librarian or archivist would have been an infringement if made by that person, the person making the declaration is liable for infringement of copyright.	§ 60(2); § 60(3)
Fair Dealing	Copying for research or private study can be within fair dealing. The determination of fair dealing depends on an application of relevant factors, including the four factors in the statute.	§ 51; § 53
Classroom Instruction	Limited use of works in the course of instruction, preparation for instruction, and administration of examinations.	§ 55
Collections for Education	Limited ability to reproduce works into “collections” intended for use in educational establishments, but subject to rigorous conditions.	§ 56
Recorded Programs for Education	Right to record a broadcast or cable program for the educational purposes of an educational institution.	§ 57
Copies for Education	Standards and limits for making reprographic copies of passages of works for education. This right may not apply if a license is available. However, a term in a license to an educational	§ 58 institution purporting to limit such copying to a portion less than the amount allowed under the statute is of no effect.

Defined Terms	An “article” in the context of an article in a periodical includes any item of any description.	§ 2(1)
	“copy” in relation to (a) a work that is literary, dramatic or musical work, means a reproduction of the work in any material form; (b) an artistic work (i) means a reproduction of the work in any material form, and (ii) includes a reproduction in three dimensions if the artistic work is a two-dimensional work, and a reproduction in two dimensions if the artistic work is a three-dimensional work, (c) a work that is a film, television broadcast or cable program, includes a photograph of the whole or any substantial part of any image forming part of the film, broadcast or cable program; (d) a work that is a typographical arrangement of a published edition, means a facsimile copy of the arrangement; and (e) any description [type] of work, includes a copy of the work that is transient or incidental to some other use of the work.	§ 2(1)
	References to “copying” of a work of any description shall be construed to include a reference to storing the work in any medium by electronic means.	§ 2(3)

Preservation and Replacement
Who can copy?	Librarians of prescribed libraries and archives, including persons acting on their behalf.	§ 69
	Conditions: None.
What can be copied?	Literary, dramatic, or musical works in the permanent collections of the institutions, including accompanying illustrations and, in the case of a published work, the typographical arrangement.
	Conditions: The work may be copied only where it is not reasonably practicable to purchase a copy of the item for the allowed purpose.
Purpose of the copy?	To preserve or replace the item by placing the copy in the permanent collection in addition to or in place of the item.
	To replace in the permanent collection of another prescribed library or archive an item which has been lost, destroyed, or damaged.
	Conditions: None.
Medium of the copy?	Any. See definition of "copy" below.

Research or Study (Published Works)
Who can copy?	Librarians of prescribed libraries and archives, including persons acting on their behalf.	§ 67
	Conditions: None.
What can be copied?	Articles in periodicals, including accompanying illustrations and the typographical arrangement. (See definition of "article" below.)
	Reasonable proportions of published editions of literary, dramatic, or musical works that are not articles in periodicals, including accompanying illustrations and the typographical arrangement.
	Conditions: With respect to an article, no more than one article from the same issue of the periodical may be copied. With respect to a work other than an article, no more than one copy of the material may be copied.
Purpose of the copy?	For research or private study.
	Conditions: The person must satisfy the librarian that the copies are for the allowed purpose and no other purpose.

		The person must satisfy librarian that the copy is to meet a need that is not related to any similar requirement of another person. The requirements for the materials are “related” if persons receive instruction to which the materials are relevant at the same time and place. The requirements for the materials are “similar” if they are for substantially the same purpose and at substantially the same time.
Medium of the copy?	Any. See definition of “copy” below.
Other provisions?	Persons to whom copies are supplied are required to pay a fee not less than the cost of producing the copy, including a contribution to the general expenses of the library or archive.

Research or Study (Unpublished Works)
Who can copy?	Librarians of prescribed libraries and archives, including persons acting on their behalf.		§ 70
	Conditions:	None.
What can be copied?	Whole or parts of literary, dramatic, or musical works from documents in the collections of the institutions, including accompanying illustrations.
	Conditions:	The work must be unpublished at the time of copying, and the librarian ought to have been aware of the fact.
		The work may not be copied if the copyright owner has prohibited copying of the work, and librarian ought to have been aware of the fact.
Purpose of the copy?	For research or private study.
	Conditions:	The person must satisfy the librarian that the copies are for the allowed purpose and no other purpose.
		The person may not receive more than one copy of the work.
Medium of the copy?	Any. See definition of “copy” below.
Other provisions?	Persons to whom copies are supplied are required to pay a fee not less than the cost of producing the copy, including a contribution to the general expenses of the library or archive.

Supplying Copies to Other Libraries
Who can copy?	Librarians of prescribed libraries and archives, including persons acting on their behalf.		§ 68
	Conditions:	None.
What may be copied?	Articles in periodicals, including accompanying illustrations and the typographical arrangement. (See definition of “article” below.)
	Whole or parts of published editions of literary, dramatic, musical, or artistic works, including accompanying illustrations and the typographical arrangement.
	Conditions:	With respect to whole or parts of published editions of literary, dramatic, musical, or artistic works, the right to copy does not apply if the librarian knows, or could by reasonable inquiry ascertain, the name and address of a person entitled to authorize the making of the copy.
Purpose of the copy?	To supply to another prescribed library or archive.
	Conditions:	None.
Medium of the copy?	Any. See definition of “copy” below.

Circumvention provisions?	None.

Miscellaneous
Agents of Librarians and Archivists	In Sections 61 to 64, references to a librarian or archivist include references to a person working on his or her behalf.	§ 66(1)
Declarations	Where a librarian is required to be satisfied as to certain conditions, the librarian is entitled to rely on a signed declaration by the person making the request, unless the librarian is aware that it is false. If the declaration is false, and if the copy would have been an infringement if made by that person, the person making the declaration is liable for infringement of copyright.	§§ 66(2) & 66(3)

Relationship to fair dealing	Copying for research or private study can be within fair dealing. Authorizing a third party to make copies for a researcher may also be within fair dealing. However, according to Section 56(2)(a), that copying by a third party is not fair dealing if the copying is done by a librarian, and the copying fails to comply with either Section 67 or 68 due to some deficiency of the declaration as required under Section 66.	§ 56(2)(a)
Fair Dealing	In determining whether an act is fair dealing, the court shall take into account relevant factors, including four factors listed in the statute that are nearly identical to the factors in U.S. fair use.	§ 58
Educational Uses	Permits various uses of certain works for educational purposes.	§§ 60 to 65
Defined Terms	An “article” in the context of an article in a periodical includes any item of any description. The term “copy” in relation to: (a) a work that is a literary, dramatic, or artistic work, means a reproduction of a work in any material form, and in respect of an artistic work includes a reproduction in three dimensions, if the artistic work is a two-dimensional work and a reproduction in two dimensions if the artistic work is a three-dimensional work; and in respect of a literary, dramatic, or musical work, includes a reproduction in the form of a record or film. (b) a work that is a film, television broadcast or cable program, includes a photograph of the whole or any substantial part of any image forming part of the film, broadcast or cable program; (c) a work that is a typographical arrangement of a published edition means a facsimile copy of the arrangement. (d) any category of work includes any copy of the work, however made and in whatever medium, that is transient or is incidental to some other use of the work. References to “copying” of a work of any description shall be construed to include a reference to storing the work in any medium by electronic means.	§ 3(1)

	Dealing in Devices?	Manufacturing or importing for sale or rental a circumvention device is prohibited.
	Providing Services?	No.
Access Control or Owner's Rights Control?	Owner's Rights Control. The provisions relate to technical measures that are used to prevent or restrict reproduction of a work or deteriorate the quality of such copies made.
Exemptions that could be used by libraries?	There are no explicit exemptions for circumvention.

Miscellaneous
Neighboring Rights	Works protected by neighboring rights may qualify for all uses that constitute exceptions concerning works protected by copyright under the law.	Art. 69
Personal Use	Permits reproduction, translation, or adaptation of most works for strictly personal and private use. Some uses are subject to remuneration (Article 74).	Art. 14
Photocopying at Public Institutions	When private copying that is subject to remuneration under Section 74 is carried out by photocopying, and if apparatuses intended for the making of such copies are in place for public use in schools, educational establishments, research institutes, public libraries, or commercial copying establishments, the author has the right to the payment of a remuneration which will be collected by the collective management organization from the owner of the apparatus.	Art. 79
Defined Term	“Reprographic reproduction” means the making of copies in facsimile form or copies of the work by other means of creating images, for example by photocopying. The making of copies in facsimile form which are reduced or increased in size is also regarded as a reprographic reproduction.	Art. 1
Source ¹²	Law of Copyright and Neighboring Rights of Benin, No. 2005-

Notwithstanding the provisions of Article 9, a library or archive service whose activities are not directly or indirectly profit-making may, without the consent of the author or other holder of copyright, make individual copies of a work by means of reprographic reproduction,

- (i) where the work reproduced is an article or a short extract from a written work, other than a computer program, with or without illustration, published in a collection of works or in an issue of a newspaper or periodical, and where the purpose of reproduction is to meet the request of a natural person;
- (ii) where the making of such copy is for the purpose of preserving and, if necessary, in the event of it having been lost, destroyed or made unusable, replacing it or, for replacing a copy that has been lost, destroyed or rendered unusable in the permanent collection of another library or other archive service.

The Bangui Agreement (at Annex VII, Article 65) also addresses anti-circumvention by prohibiting the making or importing for sale or rental of devices that render inoperative a facility for protection against copying. The act of circumvention itself is not explicitly prohibited. The article does not include any exemptions for libraries or any other parties. The Bangui Agreement has the force of national law in each Member State of the African Intellectual Property Organization (OAPI). Article 3(1) stipulates that “[r]ights relating to the fields of intellectual property, as provided for in the Annexes to this Agreement, shall be independent national rights subject to the legislation of each of the member States in which they have effect.”

Preservation, Replacement, and Library Administration
Who can copy?	Libraries, archives, and museums, and persons acting with the authority of the institution.
	Conditions:	Libraries, archives, and museums that form part of educational institutions are included (Section 30.4).
What can be copied?	Works and other subject matter, whether published or unpublished, in the permanent collections of the institutions.
	Conditions:	One of the following conditions must be satisfied: (a) The original work must be rare, or it must be unpublished; and the original work must be deteriorating, damaged, or lost, or at risk of deterioration or becoming damaged or lost. (b) The original cannot be viewed, handled, or listened to because of its condition or because of the atmospheric conditions in which it must be kept; and the copy is for purposes of on-site consultation. (c) The institution, or person acting under its authority, considers that the original is currently in a format that is obsolete or is becoming obsolete, or that the technology required to use the original is unavailable or is becoming unavailable; and the copy is made in an alternative format. (d) The copy is for the purposes of internal record-keeping and cataloging. (e) The copy is for insurance purposes or police investigations. (f) The copy is necessary for restoration.
		Alternative (a), (b), and (c) do not apply where an appropriate copy is commercially available in a medium and of a quality that is appropriate for the allowed purposes.
		If a person must make an intermediate copy in order to make an allowed copy, that person must destroy the intermediate copy as soon as it is no longer needed.
Purpose of the copy?	For maintenance or management of the permanent collection of the organization.

	For maintenance or management of the permanent collection of another library, archive, or museum.
	Conditions: None.
Medium of the copy?	Not specified.
Other provisions?	The Governor in Council may make regulations with respect to procedures for making copies under this section.

Research or Study (Articles)
Who can copy?	Libraries, archives, and museums, and persons acting with the authority of the institution.	§ 30.2 (2)-(6)
	Conditions: Libraries, archives, and museums that form part of educational institutions are included (Section 30.4)
What can be copied?	Articles published in scholarly, scientific, or technical periodicals.
	Articles published in newspapers and periodicals, other than a scholarly, scientific, or technical periodical, if the newspapers and periodicals were published more than one year before the copy is made.
	Conditions: Works of fiction or poetry and dramatic or musical works are excluded.
	The institution informs the person that the copy is to be used solely for research or private study and any other use may require authorization from the copyright owner.
	The person may be provided with a single copy only.
Purpose of the copy?	Research or private study, by request of a person.
	Conditions: If an intermediate copy is made in order to make this allowed copy, the intermediate copy must be destroyed after the copy is given to the user.
Medium of the copy?	Reprographic reproduction.
Patrons at Other Libraries	To the extent that the institution may provide copies to one of its own patrons under Section 30.2(1) or (2) (related to personal copies or copies for private study), the institution may provide the same services on behalf of a patron of another library, archive, or museum. This provision is subject to Section 30.2(5.02) (regarding digital copies).	§ 30.2(5)
Other provisions?	The Governor in Council may make regulations with respect to definitions and some procedures for implementing the statute and maintaining information related to actions taken under the statutes.
	Activities under Section 30.2 may not be carried out with a motive for gain. An institution or person acting under its authority does not have a motive of gain where it or the person acting under its authority, does anything referred to in this section and recovers no more than the costs, including overhead costs, associated with doing that act.

The person may be provided with a single copy only.
Purpose of the copy?	Research or private study, by request of a person.
	Conditions:	If an intermediate copy is made in order to make this allowed copy, the intermediate copy must be destroyed after the copy is given to the user.
		To the extent that an institution may provide copies to one of its own patrons under Section 30.2(1) or (2) (related to personal copies or copies for private study), the institution may provide the same services on behalf of a patron of another library, archive, or museum (interlibrary arrangements). This provision is subject to Section

¹⁶ Section 30.2(5.02) was added in 2012, allowing libraries and other institutions to provide digital copies of certain works to persons requesting the copies through another library. The particular provision alone does not include all details set forth here. Instead, the section establishes a few conditions, but references Section 30.2(5), which in turn references Section 30.2(1) and (2). Those provisions, especially Section 30.2(2), include most of the substantive elements that are important here.

		30.2(5.02) (regarding digital copies, summarized on this chart).
Medium of the copy?	Any. Digital form and reprographic reproduction are explicitly allowed. Further, the copies of works made for patrons at other institutions may be made in a medium other than by reprographic reproduction (Section 30.2(5.02)).
	Conditions:	Digital form is allowed if the institution takes measures to prevent the person receiving it from making any reproduction, other than printing one copy; communicating the digital copy to any person; and using the digital copy for more than five business days from the day on which the person first uses it.
Other provisions?	The Governor in Council may make regulations with respect to definitions and some procedures for implementing the statute and maintaining information related to actions taken under the statutes. Current regulations specify the recordkeeping that libraries and other institutions must maintain.		§ 29.3
	Activities under Section 30.2 may not be carried out with a motive for gain. An institution or person acting under its authority does not have a motive of gain where it or the person acting under its authority, does anything referred to in this section and recovers no more than the costs, including overhead costs, associated with doing that act.

Research or Study (Unpublished Works)
Who can copy?	Archives.		§ 31.21
	Conditions:	Archives that form part of educational institutions are included (Section 30.4)
What can be copied?	Unpublished works deposited in the archive.
	Conditions:	The archive may make only a single copy of a work for the requesting person.
		The work may be copied only if the person who deposited the work, if a copyright owner, did not, at the time of the deposit, prohibit its copying, and the copying has not been prohibited by any other owner of copyright in the work.
Purpose of the copy?	To provide to a person requesting a copy for research or private study.
	Conditions:	The archive must inform the person that the copy is to be used solely for research or private study and that any other use may require authorization from the copyright owner.

Medium of the copy?	Not specified.
Other provisions?	When a person deposits a work in an archive, the archive must give the person notice that it may copy the work in accordance with this section.
	The Governor in Council may prescribe by regulation the manner and form by which many of the conditions in this section are to be met. Current regulations detail the information that archives must provide to user, the specifics of notices that must be stamped on copies, and the warning notices to be posted.
	Activities under Section 30.21 may not be carried out with a motive for gain. An institution or person acting under its authority does not have a motive of gain where it or the person acting under its authority, does anything referred to in this section and recovers no more than the costs, including overhead costs, associated with doing that act.

Limitation of Remedies
Who qualifies?	An educational institution, library, archive, or museum.	§ 38.1 (6) & § 38.2
For what activity?	Reprographic reproduction of a work where an owner of copyright has not authorized a collective society to authorize its reproduction.
How are the remedies limited?	The owner may recover a maximum amount equal to the amount of royalties that would have been payable to the society if the reproduction had been authorized. No statutory damages may be awarded.
Other provisions?	Statutory damages are greatly reduced when the defendant satisfies the court that the defendant was not aware and had no reasonable grounds to believe that the defendant had infringed copyright. (Note: This provision could apply to a library that believed it was acting within an exception.)	§ 38.1 (2)

Anti-Circumvention of Technological Protection Measures
Circumvention provisions?	Yes.		§ 41
Prohibited Acts?	The Act of Circumvention?	The act of circumvention is prohibited.	§ 41.1(1) (a)
	Dealing in Devices?	Manufacturing, importing, distributing, offering for sale or rental is prohibited.	§ 41.1(1) (b) & (c)
	Providing Services?	Offering of circumvention services to the public is prohibited.
Access Control or Owner's Rights Control?	Both. The provisions relate to technical measures that prevent access to a work or protect a right of the copyright owner.		§ 41.1(1) (a)

Exemptions that could be used by libraries?	No exemption specifically for libraries, but the remedies may be limited. If the defendant is a library, archive, museum, or educational institution which satisfies the court that it was not aware, and had no reasonable grounds to believe, that its actions constituted a violation, the plaintiff is not entitled to any remedy other than an injunction.	§ 41.2
	Some statutory exceptions specifically provide that the user may not circumvent protections to exercise the rights of use. Examples: Creation of user-generated content (Section 29.21), private copying (Section 29.22), and time-shifting of broadcasts (Section 29.23).

Miscellaneous
Relationship to fair dealing	It is not an infringement for a library, archive, or museum or a person acting under its authority (including a library, archive, or museum that forms part of an educational institution) to do anything on behalf of any person that the person may do personally under Section 29 (related to fair dealing for the purpose of research or private study) or Section 29.1 (related to fair dealing for criticism or review). The Governor in Council may make regulations prescribing the information to be recorded about these actions and the manner and form in which the information is to be kept.	§ 30.2 (1) & (6)(c)
Reproduction machines in the library	An educational institution, library, archive, or museum (including a library, archive, or museum that forms part of an educational institution) does not infringe copyright when reprographic reproductions of works in printed form are made on a machine installed with approval on the premises for use by persons using the library or other organization, and affixed to the machine is a warning notice in the prescribed manner and location. This exemption applies only if the organization has an agreement with a collective licensing agency or other arrangement in accordance with details in the statute and regulations.	§ 30.3
User-Generated Content	Permits individuals to copy and use existing works to create new works for non-commercial purposes, and to permit intermediaries to disseminate the new works.	§ 29.21
Private Copying	Exception permitting individuals to make copies for private use.	§ 29.22
Time-Shifting of Broadcasts	Permits individuals to record broadcasts for later private use.	§ 29.23
Backup Copies	Permits any party who owns or has a license to use a work to make a backup copy of it for use should the work become lost, damaged, or rendered unusable.	§ 29.24
Educational Uses	Series of provisions permitting various uses of	§§ 29.4

	works for educational purposes.	to 30.04
Libraries and Educational Institutions	Specific education exceptions may be exercised by libraries that are part of the institutions. Sections 29.4, 30.3, and 45.	§ 30.4
Orphan Works	If a copyright owner is not located after a reasonable search, a user may apply to the Copyright Board for a license to use the work.	§ 77

CHINA

General Provisions (applicable to various statutory provisions)
Author's consent required?	No. The use is permitted without permission from the copyright owner.	Art. 22 ¹⁹
Remuneration to author?	No. The use is permitted without payment of remuneration to the copyright owner, unless otherwise noted below.
Provide name of author?	Yes. The use is permitted, provided that the name of the author is mentioned.
Provide the source of the work?	Yes. The use is permitted, provided that the title of the work is mentioned.

Display and Preservation
Who can copy?	Libraries, archives, memorial halls, museums, and art galleries.		Art. 22(8)
	Conditions:	None.
What can be copied?	Works.
	Conditions:	None.
Purpose of the copy?	For display or preservation of a copy of the work.
	Conditions:	The other rights enjoyed by the copyright owner must not be prejudiced.
Medium of the copy?	See definition of "reproduction" below.
Other provisions?	The Network Regulations refer to works digitally duplicated for the purpose of display or preservation, which are defined as works that have been damaged or nearly been damaged, or lost or stolen, or the storage format of which is outdated, which are not available in the market or can only be purchased at an obviously higher price than their designated price.		Art. 7 Network Reg.

Public Use (Making Available)
Who can communicate?	Libraries, archives, memorial halls, museums, and art galleries.		Art. 7 Network Reg.; Art. 10 Network Reg.
	Conditions:	None.
What can be communicated?	Published digital works from the library's collection or digital copies of works ("digital copies of works" are works digitally duplicated for the purpose of display or preservation, presumably consistent with Article 22(8)).
	Conditions:	Technological measures must be taken to prevent access to the works by people other than the permitted users.
		Technological measures must be taken to prevent material damage to the interests of the copyright owners by the users' duplication activities.

Purpose of the communication?	For public reading on the premises.
	Conditions:	The institutions may not directly or indirectly gain economic interest, except where otherwise agreed by the parties concerned.
		The other rights enjoyed by the copyright owner must not be prejudiced.
Medium?	Via the institution's network reading system within its premises.
Other provisions?	Remuneration is required.		Art. 11 Network Reg.
	This provision is also applicable to the providing of performance recordings or sound or video recordings, subject to the same conditions.

Anti-Circumvention of Technological Protection Measures
Circumvention provisions?	Yes.		Art. 48(6);
Prohibited Acts?	The Act of Circumvention?	The Copyright Act prohibits the circumventing or sabotaging of technical measures. The Network Regulations prohibit the evading or damaging of technological measures.	Art. 4 Network Reg.
	Dealing in Devices?	The Network Regulations prohibit manufacturing, importing, or providing to the public circumvention devices.
	Providing Services?	The Network Regulations prohibit providing circumvention services.
Access Control or Owner's Rights Control?	Possibly both. The provisions in the Copyright Act relate only to technical measures that protect the copyright in the work. The provisions in the Network Regulations relate to technical measures that prevent or restrict browsing and appreciation of works, or the provision thereof to the public via information networks.		Art. 47(6); Art. 26 Network Reg.
Exemptions that could be used by libraries?	The Copyright Act states that the prohibition on circumvention is applicable except where otherwise provided for in laws or administrative regulations. The Network Regulations provide exemptions to circumvention that are not explicitly relevant to libraries, other than the provision of literary works by libraries for the blind. These exemptions are implicitly the only instances in which circumvention is permitted.		Art. 47(6); Art. 12 Network Reg.

Miscellaneous
Defined Terms	The exclusive right of reproduction is described as right to produce one or more copies of a work by printing, photocopying, lithographing, making a sound recording or video recording, duplicating a recording, or duplicating a photographic work, or by other means.	Art. 10(5)
Private Uses	Permits use of works for personal study, research, or appreciation.	Art. 22(1)
Educational Uses	Permits translation or reproduction in small quantities of published works by teachers or scientific researchers. Network Regulation, Article 6, generally permits such materials also to be made available on a network.	Art. 22(6)
Educational Uses on Networks	Allows some works to be included on network systems for distance education, in support of the national nine-year compulsory education system, with compensation to rightsholders.	Art. 8 Network Reg.
Poverty Uses	Allows network providers to make works related to aiding poverty-stricken areas available, upon notice to rightsholders and no objection from them within 30 days.	Art. 9 Network Reg.

EL SALVADOR

Preservation and Replacement
Who can copy?	Libraries or archives.	Art. 45(d)
	Conditions: The institutions must not pursue profit-making purposes.
What can be copied?	Lawfully disclosed works that form part of the permanent stocks of the institution.
	Conditions: Only a single copy can be made. The reproduction is permitted only where it is not possible to acquire another original in a reasonable time or on reasonable terms.
Purpose of the copy?	To preserve the copy and replace it in case of need.
	To replace in the permanent stocks of another library or archive a work that has been mislaid, destroyed, or rendered unusable.
	Conditions: None.
Medium of the copy?	Not specified. See definition of "reproduction" below.

Circumvention provisions?	Yes.	Art. 85-D
Prohibited Acts?	The Act of Circumvention?		Yes.
	Dealing in Devices?		Yes.
	Providing Services?		Yes.
Access Control or Owner's Rights Control?	Both. Effective technological measures are systems that control access and protect the rights under copyright.
Exemptions that could be used by libraries?	Nonprofit libraries, archives, educational institutions, or non-commercial public broadcasting bodies are not liable for payment of damages if they did not know and had no reason to know that the activities were prohibited. Such institutions are also exempt from criminal liability. Nonprofit educational institutions, libraries, or archives have an exemption allowing them to access works with the sole aim of deciding whether to acquire the works.

Miscellaneous
Educational Uses	Permits broad uses of works for educational purposes.	Art. 44(c)
Needs of Disabled Persons	Permits uses for the blind or other handicapped persons.	Art. 44(d)

Personal Copying	Reproduction is permitted of one copy of a lawfully disclosed work for the personal and exclusive benefit of the user, who shall have made it himself with his own facilities, provided that the normal exploitation of the work is not affected and the legitimate interests of the author are not unjustifiably prejudiced thereby.	Art. 45(a)
Personal Copying	Photomechanical reproduction is permitted of a lawfully disclosed work for exclusive personal use, such as by photocopying and microfilming, provided it is confined to small parts of a protected work or to works that are out of print. Any use of the parts reproduced for other than personal purposes, made by any means or process and in competition with the author's exclusive right to exploit his work, shall be treated as unlawful reproduction.	Art. 45(b)
Educational Uses	Permits reproduction by reprographic means of short works for teaching.	Art. 44(c)
Defined Term	The exclusive right of reproduction is defined as the right to reproduce a work by fixing it in a material form according to any process that allows it to be communicated to the public in an indirect and durable manner, or to make copies of all or part of a work; this may be achieved by mechanical reproduction methods such as printing, lithography, photocopying, cinematography, phonographic recording, magnetic recording, photography, and any other form of fixation; the reproduction of improvisations, speeches, readings, and in general all public recitations by means of stenography, typewriting, and other comparable processes is also included. Anti-Circumvention of Technological Protection Measures
Circumvention provisions?	Yes.		§ 80 ³
Prohibited Acts?	The Act of Circumvention?	No.	Art. 225 Criminal Code
	Dealing in Devices?	Manufacturing, acquiring, possessing, using, delivering, selling or transferring a technical device or equipment designed for removal of protective measures is prohibited.
	Providing Services?	No.
Access Control or Owner's Rights Control?	Both. Permitted technical measures are designed to prevent or restrict acts related to a work. With the help of technological measures, the rightsholders control the use of protected works through the application of an access control or protection process.		§ 80 ³ (2), (3)
Exemptions that could be used by libraries?	In the cases of free use of the works for personal use, library purposes, and other designated uses, the rightsholder must adjust technical measures to allow the entitled persons to freely use the work to the extent necessary for the free use, where the entitled persons have legal access to the protected work.		§ 80 ³ (4)
	Conditions:	The section does not apply to computer programs.	§ 80 ³ (6)
		The section does not apply to such works which have been made available to the public on the basis of an agreement in such a way that persons can use them from a place and time individually chosen by them.	§ 80 ³ (5)
Other Provisions?	If the person entitled to free use and the rightsholder fail to reach an agreement on application of the technical measures within a reasonable period of time, the person may address the copyright committee through procedures set forth in the statute.		§ 80 ³ (4)

Miscellaneous
Three Step Test	Application of the statutory exceptions may not adversely affect normal exploitation of the work or cause injury to the interests of the rightsholder.	§ 17
Public Lending	Libraries must pay remuneration for public lending; the calculation and payment procedures are set forth in Section 13 ³ .	§ 13 ³
Private Uses	Permits reproduction and translation of lawfully published works by natural persons for personal use.	§ 18
Needs of Disabled Persons	Public archives, museums, and libraries can reproduce a work on the order of a court or state agency for the purpose of reproduction, distribution, and communication of a work in the interests of disabled persons.	§ 20(1) 6); 19 6)

FIJI

Research or Study (Literary, Dramatic, or Musical Works)
Who can copy?	Librarians of prescribed libraries, or persons acting on their behalf. See definition of “prescribed library” below.	§ 49
	Conditions: None.
What can be copied?	Published literary, dramatic, or musical works, contained in books by one author.
	Published literary, dramatic, or musical works, contained in books by more than one author, including any artistic work included in that work and the typographical arrangement.
	Conditions: One copy of a short excerpt of a single author’s work is permitted if the work has one author; or one copy of a short excerpt of each author’s work is permitted if the work has more than one author.
	The section does not include the copying of articles or computer programs.
	No person may be supplied on the same occasion with more than one copy of the same material.
	A copy may only be made if there is no collective license available of which the librarian is or should be aware.
Purpose of the copy?	For research or private study.
	Conditions: The librarian must be satisfied that the person to whom the copy is supplied will use the copy for the allowed purpose.
	The librarian must be satisfied that the requirement is not related to any similar requirement of another person.
Medium of the copy?	Any. See definition of “copying” below.
Other provisions?	If a person to whom a copy is supplied is required to pay for it, the payment required must be no higher than the cost of production of the copy together with a reasonable contribution to the general expenses of the library.

Copying for Library Users (Articles)
Who can copy?	Librarians of prescribed libraries, or persons acting on their behalf. See definition of “prescribed library” below.	§ 50
	Conditions: None.
What can be copied?	Literary, dramatic, or musical works contained in articles in periodicals, including any artistic work included in that work and the typographical arrangement.

	Published editions that are articles in periodicals, including the typographical arrangement.
	Conditions:	No person may be supplied on the same occasion with more than one copy of the same material.
		No person may be supplied on the same occasion with copies of more than one article contained in the same issue of a periodical unless the copies supplied all relate to the same subject matter.
A copy may only be made if there is no collective license available of which the librarian is or should be aware.
Purpose of the copy?	For supply to a person. (Note: The provision does not specify a particular purpose that the person must have.)
	Conditions:	None.
Medium of the copy?	Any. See definition of “copying” below.
Other provisions?	If a person to whom a copy is supplied is required to pay for it, the payment required must be no higher than the cost of production of the copy together with a reasonable contribution to the general expenses of the library.

Supplying Copies to Other Libraries (Published Works)
Who can copy?	Librarians of prescribed libraries, or persons acting on their behalf. See definition of “prescribed library” below.	§ 51(1)
	Conditions: None
What can be copied?	Published literary, dramatic, or musical works, including any artistic work contained in that work and the typographical arrangement. ²⁸
	A literary, dramatic, or musical work contained in an article in a periodical, including any artistic work contained in that work and the typographical arrangement.
	Conditions:
	In the case of a literary, dramatic or musical work contained in a book by one author, not more than one copy of the work can be supplied.
	In the case of a work contained in a periodical, the whole article can be supplied.

²⁸ It seems that there may be considerable overlap of Section 51(1) and Section 51(2). Section 51(1)(c) appears to apply to a wide range of works and does not limit quantity. Section 51(2) apparently allows copies of entire books if the additional conditions of Section 51(3) are fulfilled. However, some books permitted under Section 51(2) might also be copied under Section 51(1)(c) without meeting the added conditions.

		In the case of any other published literary, dramatic or musical work, not more than one copy of the work or edition may be supplied.
		The section excludes computer programs.
Purpose of the copy?	For supply to another prescribed library.
	Conditions:	None.
Medium of the copy?	Any. See definition of “copying” below.

Supplying Copies to Other Libraries (Published Books)
Who can copy?	Librarians of prescribed libraries, or persons acting on their behalf. See definition of “prescribed library” below.		§ 51(2)
	Conditions:	None.
What can be copied?	A literary, dramatic, or musical work from a published edition of a book, including any artistic work contained in the work and the typographical arrangement.
	Conditions:	The section excludes computer programs.
		The receiving librarian must have been unable to obtain the work at a commercial price within the six months preceding the supply.
		The receiving librarian must make and keep a record sufficient to identify the work copied.
		The receiving librarian must permit the inspection of the record by the copyright owner during normal office hours.
		On demand, the receiving librarian must pay equitable remuneration to the copyright owner for the work copied. “Equitable remuneration” means a sum agreed upon by the librarian and the copyright owner. If an agreement cannot be reached, either party may apply for a determination to be made by the Copyright Tribunal (Section 163).
Purpose of the copy?	For supply to another librarian of a prescribed library.
	Conditions:	None.
Medium of the copy?	Any. See definition of “copying” below.

Preservation and Replacement
Who can copy?	Librarians of prescribed libraries, or persons acting on their behalf. See definition of “prescribed library” below.		§ 52
	Archivists of archives, or persons acting on their behalf. See definition of “archive” below.

	Conditions: None.
What can be copied?	Literary, dramatic, or musical works, including any artistic work contained within the work and the typographical arrangement.
	Conditions: The work may be copied only where it is not reasonably practicable to purchase a copy of the work to fulfill the allowed purpose.
Purpose of the copy?	To preserve or replace an item by placing the copy in the permanent collection of the library or archive in addition to or in place of the item.
	To replace in the permanent collection of another prescribed library or archive an item that has been lost, destroyed, or damaged.
	Conditions: None.
Medium of the copy?	Any. See definition of “copying” below.

Copying for Library Users (Unpublished Works)
Who can copy?	Librarians of prescribed libraries, or persons acting on their behalf. See definition of “prescribed library” below.	§ 53
	Archivists of archives, or persons acting on their behalf. See definition of “archive” below.
	Conditions: None.
What can be copied?	Unpublished works in the library or archive.
	Conditions: The work may not be copied if the copyright owner has prohibited copying of the work and at the time the copy is made the librarian or archivist making it is or ought to be aware of that fact.
	A copy may only be made if there is no collective license available of which the librarian is or should be aware.
	No person may be supplied on the same occasion with more than one copy of the same work.
Purpose of the copy?	For supply to a person. (Note: The provision does not specify a particular purpose that the person must have.)
Medium of the copy?	Any. See definition of “copying” below.
Other provisions?	If a person to whom a copy is supplied is required to pay for it, the payment required must be no higher than the cost of production of the copy together with a reasonable contribution to the general expenses of the library.

Anti-Circumvention of Technological Protection Measures
Circumvention provisions?	Yes.	§ 223

Prohibited Acts?	The Act of Circumvention?	No.
	Dealing in Devices?	Making, importing, selling, letting for hire, offering or exposing for sale or hire, or advertising for sale or hire a circumvention device is prohibited.
	Providing Services?	Publishing information intended to enable or assist persons to circumvent protection devices is prohibited.
Access Control or Owner's Rights Control?	Owner's Rights Control. The provisions relate to technical measures used to prevent or restrict copying of a work or to impair the quality of copies made.
Exemptions that could be used by libraries?	There are no explicit exemptions for circumvention.

Miscellaneous
Rental by libraries	Copyright is not infringed by the library renting a work if certain conditions are fulfilled	§ 73
Archival Broadcasts	A recording of a broadcast or cable program as prescribed by regulations, or a copy of such a recording, maybe made for the purpose of being placed in an archive maintained by a body prescribed by regulations	§ 82
Defined Terms	"Archive" means the National Archives of the Fiji Islands; any library, museum, or other body approved by the Minister of Information to be a repository of archival material; any collection of documents of historical significance or public interest that is in the custody of and maintained by a person or body, whether incorporated or unincorporated, that does not keep and maintain the collection for the purpose of deriving a profit.	§ 2; § 48
	"Prescribed library" means the Parliamentary Library; a library maintained by an educational establishment, government department, or local authority; any other library or class of library prescribed by regulations made under Section 229, not being a library conducted for profit.

Anti-Circumvention of Technological Protection Measures
Circumvention provisions?	Yes.		Art. 50a & 50b
Prohibited Acts?	The Act of Circumvention?	The act of circumvention is prohibited where it protects against uses of the work. (Note: A person has the right, however, to view or listen to copies legally acquired even if circumvention is required to do so.)
	Dealing in Devices?	Producing and making available circumvention devices is prohibited.
	Providing Services?	Providing circumvention services is prohibited.
Access Control or Owner's Rights Control?	Owner's rights control. The provisions relate to technical measures used to protect the author's rights.
Exemptions that could be used by libraries?	Where a work or access to a work has been lawfully acquired, the person has the right to use the work to the extent necessary in accordance with the specified copyright limitations. Articles 16 (reproduction in libraries) and 16a (making available a work in libraries) are specified limitations. The author making the work available must provide the means for using it if it has technological restrictions. If voluntary means are not provided, the user has the right to request an arbitration proceeding.		Art. 50c
	Conditions:	The obligation to provide the means to use a work does not apply to works made available to the public on agreed contractual terms in such a way that members of the public may access them from a place and at a time individually chosen by them.
Other provisions?	Reaffirming the exemption for libraries, the copyright law includes a general prohibition against using a work under an exception if the technological measures have been circumvented. However that prohibition does not apply to the statutory library exceptions in Articles 16, 16a, 16b, and 16c. See Article 11(5).

Miscellaneous
Definition	The reproduction of a work shall comprise making copies of the work in whole or in part, directly or indirectly, temporarily or permanently and by any means or in any form whatsoever. The	Art. 2(2) reproduction of a work shall also comprise the transfer of the work on to another device, by which it can be reproduced or communicated.

Legal Deposit Libraries	Permits legal deposit libraries to make specific uses of some works, including the right to apply the library exceptions of Articles 16 and 16a to works in the collections.	Art. 16b
Audiovisual Works	Specific provision for use of works by the National Audiovisual Library.	Art. 16c
Extended Collective License	A library or archive authorized to use a work under the library exceptions may make similar uses of other works in the collections pursuant to extended collective licensing.	Art. 16d
Government Decree	A government decree may specify the libraries that are permitted to apply the library exceptions.	Art. 16e
Persons with Disabilities	Permits uses of works to serve the needs of persons with disabilities.	Art. 17
Educational Uses	Permits reproductions of some works for compilations used in education.	Art. 18
Orphan Works	Implements the European Union directive on orphan works, 2012/28/EC. The Copyright Act, at Article 16f, references an orphan works exception that may be applied by libraries open to the public, archives, museums, educational institutions, and certain other organizations. The detailed terms of the law are separately codified in the Orphan Works Act, cited below.	Art. 16f

GERMANY

Research or Study (Making Available)
Who can communicate?	Publicly accessible libraries, museums, and archives.		§ 52b
	Conditions:	The institutions must have no direct or indirect economic or gainful purpose.
What can be communicated?	Published works from the institution's collection.
	Conditions:	The works may not be made accessible if contract terms prohibit it. ³⁰
		The number of copies made simultaneously accessible cannot exceed the number of copies in the institution's collection.
Purpose of the communication?	For research and private study.
	Conditions:	None. ³¹
Medium?	Via dedicated terminals on the premises of the institution.
Other provisions?	Reasonable compensation must be paid; a valid claim for payment is made through a rights management organization.

Library Copying for Users
Who can copy?	Public libraries.		§ 53a
	Conditions:	None.
What can be copied?	Single published articles from newspapers or periodicals.
	Small portions of other published works.
	Conditions:	Copies in electronic form are limited to the extent justified by the non-commercial purpose.
		Copies in electronic form are only permitted if access to the works by members of the public from places and at times of their choice is not clearly possible under equitable contractual terms.
Purpose of the copy?	To supply to a requesting individual.

	Conditions:	Copies sent by postal or fax delivery require that the individual's purpose must be consistent with Section 53 (which sets forth detailed exceptions for personal copying).
		Copies in electronic form may only be used for illustration for teaching or for scientific research.
Medium of the copy?	Any.
	Conditions:	Copies of works may be sent by postal or fax delivery.
		Copying in electronic form is only permitted as a graphic image of the work.
Other provisions?	This provision permits reproduction and transmission.
	Reasonable compensation must be paid; a valid claim for payment is made through a rights management organization.

Anti-Circumvention of Technological Protection Measures
Circumvention provisions?	Yes.		§ 95a (1)
Prohibited Acts?	The Act of Circumvention?	The act of circumvention is prohibited.	§ 95a (3)
	Dealing in Devices?	Manufacturing, importing, distributing, selling, renting, advertising for sale or rental, and possessing for commercial purposes circumvention devices is prohibited.
	Providing Services?	Providing circumvention services is prohibited.
Access Control or Owner's Rights Control?	Both. The provisions relate to technological measures that prevent or restrict acts that are not authorized by the rightsholder; it includes access controls and protection processes.		§ 95a (2)
Exemptions that could be used by libraries?	The law sets forth some exemptions to the circumvention provisions, which require that the rightsholder is obligated to make available the means which enable the uses within the applicable exceptions. However, the exemptions do not include the uses contained in this chart under Section 52b or 53a.		§ 95b
Other provisions?	The provisions on circumvention do not apply to computer programs.		§ 69a

Miscellaneous
Private Copying	Reproduction is permitted for private copies made by natural persons solely for domestic purposes in the private sphere.	§ 53(1)
	Reproduction is permitted in singular copies for	§ 53(2)

	personal uses.
Orphan Works	Implements the European Union directive on orphan works, 2012/28/EC.	§§ 61 to 61c
Reproduction of Works of Art	Public libraries, museums, and educational institutions may, in connection with a public exhibition or for documenting a collection, may reproduce and distribute works of art and photographs in catalogs, for non-commercial purposes.	§ 58

	Dealing in Devices?	Manufacturing, importing, distributing, selling, renting, advertising for sale or rental, and possessing for commercial purposes circumvention devices is prohibited.	Art. 66A(3)
	Providing Services?	Providing circumvention services is prohibited.
Access Control or Owner's Rights Control?	Both. The provisions relate to technological measures that are designed to prevent or restrict acts which are not authorized by the rightsholder; the technological measures can include access control or a protection process.		Art. 66A(1)
Exemptions that could be used by libraries?	With respect to the exemptions for libraries and other specified uses, the rightsholders have the obligation to give to the beneficiaries the measures to ensure the benefit of the exception to the extent necessary, where the beneficiaries have legal access to the protected work or subject-matter concerned.		Art. 66A(5)
	Condition:	Where works or subject-matter are made available to the public on agreed contractual terms where the public may access them from a place and at a time individually chosen by them, the exemption and mediation provisions do not apply.

Other provisions?	If rightsholders do not take voluntary measures for the third parties such as libraries to benefit from the exception, the third party may request assistance from a mediator.		Art. 66A(5)

Miscellaneous
Definition	The right of reproduction includes “the fixation and direct or indirect, temporary or permanent reproduction of their works by any means and in any form, in whole or in part.”		Art. 3(1)(a)
Personal Copying	It is permissible for a person to make a reproduction of a lawfully published work for his own private use, under elaborate conditions.		Art. 18
Educational Uses	Permits reproduction by printing of published literary works for textbooks as part of the curriculum established by government standards, without permission or payment. After the death of an author, reproductions of selections of that person’s works may be combined with writings of other authors in a printed anthology. These uses must include attribution of the source and not conflict with the normal exploitation of the work from which they are drawn.		Art. 20
Educational Uses	Permits reproduction of published articles and short extracts of other works for education.		Art. 21
Orphan Works	Provisions implementing the orphan works directive of the European Union. The orphan works provisions apparently apply only to works and phonograms that first secure copyright protection on or after 29 October 2014 (see Article 68A(3)).		Art. 27A
Persons with Disabilities	Permits uses of works for the needs of the blind and deaf mutes. Authorizes governmental agency to determine by regulation the scope and application of the provision.		Art. 28A
Three Step Test	Provides that the exceptions in general “shall only be applied in certain special cases which do not conflict with a normal exploitation of the work or other protected subject-matter and do not unreasonably prejudice the legitimate interests of the rightsholder.”		Art. 28C
Related Rights	The copyright exceptions apply mutatis mutandis to related rights.		Art. 52(b)

Research or Study (Article in a Periodical Publication)
Who can copy?	By or on behalf of a librarian of a library.		§ 7(1); § 7(2); § 7(9)
	Conditions:	Library must be of a class prescribed by regulations made under this subsection by the Minister. Libraries to which the regulations apply are not established or conducted for profit
What can be copied?	Article in a periodical publication.
	Conditions:	A copy of the article for this purpose includes a copy of the illustrations in the work, which are defined as one or more artistic works provided for explaining or illustrating the article. For purposes of Section 7, an "article" includes an item of any description.
Purpose of the copy?	To make or supply a copy for purposes of research or private study.
	Conditions:	Copies in question are supplied only to persons satisfying the librarian, or a person acting on his behalf, that they require them for the above purposes. That the librarian, or a person acting on his behalf, is satisfied that the persons will not use them for any other purpose.
Medium of the copy?	Not specified.
Other provisions?	The conditions prescribed by the regulations made under this subsection by the Minister must be complied with. The Minister may impose such other requirements as may appear to the Minister to be expedient.
	No person is furnished under the regulations with two or more copies of the same article.
	No copy extends to more than one article contained in any one publication.
	Persons to whom copies are supplied under the regulations are required to pay for them a sum not less than the cost (including a contribution to the general expenses of the library) attributable to their production.

Research or Study (Published Literary, Dramatic, or Musical Work)
Who can copy?	By or on behalf of a librarian of a library.		§ 7(3); § 7(4); § 7(9)
	Conditions:	Library must be of a class prescribed by regulations made under this subsection by the Minister.

		Libraries to which the regulations apply are not established or conducted for profit
What can be copied?	Part of published literary, dramatic, or musical work.
	Conditions:	Other than an article contained in a periodical publication.
		A copy of the work for this purpose includes a copy of the illustrations in the work, which are defined as one or more artistic works provided for explaining or illustrating the work.
Purpose of the copy?	To make or supply a copy for purposes of research or private study.
	Conditions:	Copies in question are supplied only to persons satisfying the librarian, or a person acting on his behalf, that they require them for the above purposes.
		That the librarian, or a person acting on his behalf, is satisfied that the persons will not use them for any other purpose.
Medium of the copy?	Not specified.
Other provisions?	The conditions prescribed by the regulations made under this subsection by the Minister must be complied with.
	No person is furnished under the regulations with two or more copies of the same article [part of a specified work].
	Persons to whom copies are supplied under the regulations are required to pay for them a sum not less than the cost (including a contribution to the general expenses of the library) attributable to their production.
	Any regulations made shall include such provision as the Minister may consider appropriate for securing that no copy to which the regulations apply extends to more than a reasonable proportion of the work in question.
	This provision does not apply, if at the time when the copy is made, the librarian knows the name and address of a person entitled to authorize the making of the copy, or could by reasonable inquiry ascertain the name and address of such a person.

Research or Study (Unpublished Works)
Who can copy?	A person.		§ 7(6); § 7(9)
	Conditions:	None.
What can be copied?	Unpublished and copyrighted literary, dramatic, or musical work.

	Conditions:	Manuscript or a copy of the work is kept in a library, museum or other institution where (subject to any provisions regulating the institution in question) it is open to public inspection. A copy of the work for this purpose includes a copy of the illustrations in the work, which are defined as one or more artistic works provided for explaining or illustrating the article.
Purpose of the copy?	For purposes of research or private study, or with a view to publication.
	Conditions:	None.
Medium of the copy?	Reproduction. See definition below.
Other provisions?	Applies where, at a time more than fifty years from the end of the calendar year in which the author of a literary, dramatic, or musical work died, and more than one hundred years after the time, or the end of the period, at or during which the work was made.

Supply to Libraries
Who can copy?	By or on behalf of a librarian of a library.		§ 7(5); § 7(9)
	Conditions:	Library must be of a class prescribed by regulations made under this subsection by the Minister.
What can be copied?	Published literary, dramatic or musical work.
	Conditions:	A copy of the work, or a part of it. A copy of the work for this purpose includes a copy of the illustrations in the work, which are defined as one or more artistic works provided for explaining or illustrating the work.
Purpose of the copy?	To supply to the librarian of any library of a class prescribed by the Minister.
	Conditions:	None.
Medium of the copy?	Not specified.
Other provisions?	At the time when the copy is made, the librarian by or on whose behalf it is supplied does not know the name and address of any person entitled to authorize the making of the copy, and could not by reasonable inquiry ascertain the name and address of such a person. This does not apply in the case of an article contained in a periodical publication.
	Any other conditions prescribed by the regulations must be complied with.

Anti-Circumvention of Technological Protection Measures
Circumvention provisions?	None.

Library Internal Use
Who can copy?	Publicly accessible libraries, educational establishments, museums, and archives, including audio and audiovisual archives.		Art. 35(4)
	Conditions:	None.
What can be copied?	Works.
	Conditions:	Only a minor part of a work made public or of an article published in a newspaper or periodical may be copied.
		The work must be disclosed to the public (Article 33(1)). (The term “disclosed” is not defined.)
The reproduction is limited to “a copy.”
Purpose of the copy?	For scientific research, by archiving from the institution’s own copy for a scientific purpose or to supply to another public library.
	Conditions:	The use must be for internal institutional purposes, outside the scope of entrepreneurial activity.
		The use is permitted to the extent and in the way justified by such a purpose if it is not intended for earning or increasing income even in an indirect way.
Medium of the copy?	Any. See definition of “reproduction” below.
Other provisions?	A separate law can be created to allow copying under certain conditions in exceptional cases.

Research or Study (Making Available)
Who can communicate?	Publicly accessible libraries, educational establishments, museums, and archives, including audio and audiovisual archives.		Art. 38(5)
	Conditions:	None.
What can be communicated?	Works forming part of the institution’s collection.
	Conditions:	The work must be disclosed to the public (Article 33(1)). (The term “disclosed” is not defined.)
		Making available is permitted in the absence of a contractual provision to the contrary.
Purpose of the communication?	For research or private study.
	Conditions:	The use may not be for direct or indirect earning or increasing income.
Medium?	The work may be freely displayed to individual members of the public on the screens of dedicated terminals on the premises of such establishments.

Other provisions?	Conditions may be provided in separate legislation.
	The Decree of 2004 adds: (a) The institution must implement technical means to prevent modification and reproduction of the works or communication beyond the intended group of users; and (b) Users are required to make a statement that they will not use the works other than for research or private study.
	The Decree of 2004 further permits that the collection of an institution may be interconnected with the collection at another institution and made available to the public at that institution via dedicated terminals. The connection must be by dedicated network and based on a safe technical solution that prevents any person from accessing the collections apart from the users of the collections of beneficiary establishments.

Anti-Circumvention of Technological Protection Measures
Circumvention provisions?	Yes.		Art. 95
Prohibited Acts?	The Act of Circumvention?	The act of circumvention is prohibited.
	Dealing in Devices?	Manufacturing, importing, distributing, selling, renting, advertising for sale or rental, or possessing for commercial purposes circumvention devices is prohibited.
	Providing Services?	Providing circumvention services is prohibited.
Access Control or Owner's Rights Control?	Both. The provisions relate to technical measures that provide protection for copyright; they include access control and protection processes.
Exemptions that could be used by libraries?	Yes. In the case of library copying (and other specified uses), a beneficiary of such a free use may demand that the rightsholder, in spite of the protection granted against circumvention, make the free use possible for him.		Art. 95/A (1)
	Conditions:	The beneficiary of the free use has access to the work lawfully in order to benefit from the exemption.
Other provisions?	If the beneficiary and rightsholder cannot come to an agreement on making circumvention possible for the permitted free uses, then either party may initiate a procedure with the Copyright Mediation Board.		Art. 95/A (2)

Miscellaneous

LIBERIA

Preservation, Security, and Supply to Other Libraries (Unpublished Works)
Who can copy?	Libraries and archives, including employees acting within the scope of their employment.
	Conditions:	The collections of the library or archive must be open to the public or available not only to researchers affiliated with the library or archive or with the institution of which it is a part, but also to persons doing research in a specialized field.
What can be copied?	Unpublished works that are currently in the collection of the library or archives.
	Conditions:	Only a single copy can be made.
		The reproduction and distribution must include a notice of copyright.
The reproduction and distribution must be isolated and unrelated in a single copy of the same material on separate occasions. The use is not permitted where the library or archives, or its employees, is aware or has substantial reason to believe that it is engaging in the related or concerted reproduction or distribution of multiple copies of the same material, whether made on one occasion or over a period of time, and whether intended for aggregate use by the individual members of a group.
Purpose of the copy?	For preservation and security.
	For deposit for research use in another library or archives.
	Conditions:	The reproduction or distribution must be made without any purpose of direct or indirect commercial advantage.
Medium of the copy?	Facsimile form. (The term "facsimile" is not defined.)
Other provisions?	Reproduction and distribution are permitted by this section.

§ 2.9(a);
§ 2.9(b)
§ 2.9(g)

Replacement
Who can copy?	Libraries and archives, including employees acting within the scope of their employment.		§ 2.9(a); § 2.9(c); § 2.9(g)
	Conditions:	The collections of the library or archive must be open to the public or available not only to researchers affiliated with the library or archive or with the institution of which it is a part, but also to persons doing research in a specialized field.
What can be copied?	Published works or sound recordings.
	Conditions:	Only a single copy can be made.
		The reproduction and distribution must include a notice of copyright.
		The reproduction and distribution must be isolated and unrelated in a single copy of the same material on separate occasions. The use is not permitted where the library or archives, or its employees, is aware or has substantial reason to believe that it is engaging in the related or concerted reproduction or distribution of multiple copies of the same material, whether made on one occasion or over a period of time, and whether intended for aggregate use by the individual members of a group.
Purpose of the copy?	For replacement of a copy that is damaged, deteriorating, lost, or stolen.
	Conditions:	The reproduction or distribution must be made without any purpose of direct or indirect commercial advantage.
		The reproduction is permitted if the library or archives has, after reasonable effort, determined that an unused replacement cannot be obtained at a fair price.
Medium of the copy?	Facsimile form. (The term "facsimile" is not defined.)

Research or Study (Articles and Parts of Works)
Who can copy?	Libraries or archives, including employees acting within the scope of their employment.	§2.9(a); §2.9(d); §2.9(h)
	Conditions: The collections of the library or archive must be open to the public or available not only to researchers affiliated with the library or archive or with the institution of which it is a part, but also to persons doing research in a specialized field.
What can be copied?	Single articles or other contributions to issues of periodicals contained in the collections of the library or archive.
	Small parts of sound recordings or other copyrighted works contained in the collections of the library or archive.
	Conditions: Musical works; pictorial, graphic, or sculptural works; and motion pictures or audiovisual works dealing with news⁴⁰ are excluded. However, copying pictorial or graphic works published as illustrations, diagrams, or similar adjuncts to works in connection with the copying of the permitted works is allowed.
	Only a single copy can be made.
	The reproduction and distribution must include a notice of copyright.
	The copy or sound recording must become the property of the user.
	The reproduction and distribution must be isolated and unrelated in a single copy of the same material on separate occasions. The use is not permitted where the library or archives, or its employees, is aware or has substantial reason to believe that it is engaging in the related or concerted reproduction or distribution of multiple copies of the same material, whether made on one occasion or over a period of time, and whether intended for aggregate use by the individual members of a group. The use is also not permitted where the library or archives or its employees engages in the systematic reproduction or distribution of single or multiple copies of material under this subsection (d). This clause does not prohibit interlibrary arrangements (see next table).

Purpose of the copy?	For private study, scholarship, or research, as requested by a user or another library or archives.
	Conditions:	The reproduction or distribution must be made without any purpose of direct or indirect commercial advantage.
		The library or archive may not reproduce or distribute a copy where it has notice that the copy will be used for a purpose other than the permitted purposes.
Medium of the copy?	Not specified.
Other provisions?	Reproduction and distribution are permitted by this section.
	The library or archive must place a notice at the location where orders are accepted and on the order form warning users of copyright. The requirements for the notice are prescribed by regulation.

Supplying Copies to Other Libraries (Interlibrary Loan)
Who can copy?	A library or archives, including employees acting within the scope of their employment.		§2.9(a); §2.9(d); §2.9(h)
	Conditions:	The collections of the library or archive must be open to the public or available not only to researchers affiliated with the library or archive or with the institution of which it is a part, but also to persons doing research in a specialized field.
What can be copied?	Implicitly, any work that can be copied consistent with the provisions of the Copyright Act can be copied.

	Conditions:	Libraries and archives may participate in interlibrary arrangements that do not have as their purpose or effect that the receipt of such copies is in such aggregate quantities as to substitute for a subscription to our purchase of such work.
Purpose of the copy?	For receipt of materials through interlibrary arrangements.
	Conditions:	The reproduction or distribution must be made without any purpose of direct or indirect commercial advantage.
Medium of the copy?	Not specified.

Research or Study (Entire Works)
Who can copy?	Libraries and archives, including employees acting within the scope of their employment.		§ 2.9(a); § 2.9(e); § 2.9(h)
	Conditions:	The collections of the library or archive must be open to the public or available not only to researchers affiliated with the library or archive or with the institution of which it is a part, but also to persons doing research in a specialized field.
What can be copied?	Entire works, or substantial parts of works, contained the collections of the library or archive.
	Conditions:	Musical works; pictorial, graphic, or sculptural works; and motions pictures or audio-visual works dealing with news are excluded. However, copying pictorial or graphic works published as illustrations, diagrams, or similar adjuncts to works in connection with the copying of the permitted works is allowed.
		Only a single copy can be made.
		The reproduction and distribution must include a notice of copyright.
		The reproduction and distribution is only permitted where the library has first determined, on the basis of a reasonable investigation that a work or sound recording cannot be obtained at a fair price.

		The copy or sound recording must become the property of the user. The reproduction and distribution must be isolated and unrelated in a single copy of the same material on separate occasions. The use is not permitted where the library or archives, or its employees, is aware or has substantial reason to believe that it is engaging in the related or concerted reproduction or distribution of multiple copies of the same material, whether made on one occasion or over a period of time, and whether intended for aggregate use by the individual members of a group.
Purpose of the copy?	For private study, scholarship, or research, as requested by a user or another library or archives.	Conditions: The reproduction or distribution must be made without any purpose of direct or indirect commercial advantage. The library or archive may not reproduce or distribute a copy where it has notice that the copy will be used for a purpose other than the permitted purposes.
Medium of the copy?	Not specified.
Other provisions?	Reproduction and distribution are permitted by this section.	The library or archive must place a notice at the location where orders are accepted and on the order form warning users of copyright. The requirements for the notice are prescribed by regulation.

Limitation of Remedies
Who qualifies?	Libraries and archives, and employees or agents of non-profit educational institutions, libraries, or archives, acting in the scope of employment.	§ 2.42 (IV)(2)
For what activity?	Reproduction of works.
How are the remedies limited?	Statutory damages are remitted.
Under what conditions?	Where the infringer believed and had reasonable grounds for believing that the use was a fair use.

Circumvention provisions?	None.

Miscellaneous
Fair Use	Fair use of a work is not infringement.	§ 2.7
Effect on Fair Use and Contractual Obligations	Nothing in the library provisions affects the right of Fair Use or any contractual obligations assumed at the time the library or archives obtained a copy of a work in its collections.	§ 2.9(f)(4)
Library Copying Machines	Nothing in the library provisions shall be construed to impose liability for copyright infringement upon a library or archives or its employees for the unsupervised use of reproducing equipment if a notice is displayed that the making of a copy may be subject to the copyright law.	§ 2.7(f)(1)
Liability for exceeding the scope of the exemptions	Nothing in the library provisions shall excuse a person who uses library reproducing machines or makes a request under (d) from liability for copyright infringement for any such act or for later use of the copy if it exceeds fair use.	§ 2.7(f)(2)
Audiovisual News	A library or archives can reproduce and distribute by lending of a limited number of copies and excerpts of an audiovisual news program.	§ 2.9(f)(3)

For this purpose, the copy may be digital if: (1) the original is at risk of loss, damage, or destruction; (2) the digital copy replaces the original; (3) the original is generally not made accessible; (4) it is not reasonably practicable to purchase a copy.
	To replace in the collection of another prescribed library or archive an item that has been lost, destroyed, or damaged.

	Conditions:	A copy may be made only where it is not reasonably practicable to purchase the item to fulfill the purpose.
		For this purpose, the copy may be digital if: (1) the original has been lost, damaged, or destroyed; and (2) it is not reasonably practicable to purchase a copy.
Medium of the copy?	Any. See definition of “copying” below.
	Conditions:	See references to digital copying in connection with purpose.

Communicating Works to Library Users (Making Available)
Who can communicate?	Librarians of prescribed libraries, including persons working on behalf of the librarians.
	Archivists of archives, including persons working on behalf of the archivists.
	Conditions:	None.
What can be communicated?	A digital copy of a work.
	Conditions:	Librarian or archivist has obtained the digital copy lawfully.
		The copy is communicated in a form that cannot be altered or modified.
Purpose of the communication?	To communicate the digital copy of a work to an authenticated user.
	Conditions:	Librarian or archivist ensures that the user is informed in writing about the limits under the law and uses must be in accordance with the copyright law.
		The number of users who can access the digital copy at any one time is not more than the digital copies purchased or licensed by the library or archives.
Medium?	Digital.
Other Provisions?	An “authenticated user” is a person with a legitimate right to use the services of the library or archives, or can access the copy through a verification system.
	To “communicate” a work means to transmit it or make it available by means of a communication technology, including by means of an electronic retrieval system (Section 2).

Anti-Circumvention of Technological Protection Measures
Circumvention provisions?	Yes.
Prohibited Acts?	The Act of Circumvention?	No.

to 226E

	Dealing in Devices?	Making, importing, selling, letting for hire, offering or exposing for sale or hire, advertising for sale or hire, or publishing information intended to enable the making of circumvention devices is prohibited.
	Providing Services?	A person may not provide services to another person, intending or knowing that the services may enable circumvention.
Access Control or Owner's Rights Control?	Owner's Rights Control. The provisions relate to devices that prevent or restrict the copying of a work or that impair the quality of copies made.
Exemptions that could be used by libraries?	The TPM restrictions in general "do not prevent or restrict the exercise of a permitted act," suggesting that TPM cannot be used to prevent lawful uses of the work (Section 226D). The law further provides that circumvention is allowed for permitted uses (Section 226E). Librarians and archivists are among the "qualified persons" who may acquire circumvention devices. Individuals may also request that a library or archive act on its behalf to circumvent the TPM if the rightsholder has not provided the means or responded to a request.

Exemptions that could be used by libraries?	None.

Miscellaneous
Fair Use	The fair use of a copyrighted work for criticism, comment, news reporting, teaching including limited number of copies for classroom use, scholarship, research, and similar purposes is not an infringement of copyright. The statute specifies that decompilation of a computer program to achieve interoperability with other programs may also be fair use. The statute specifies the four factors: purpose of the use; nature of the work used; the amount of the work used; and effect of the use on the value of or market for the original.		§ 185 performers, producers of sound recordings, and broadcasting organizations.
Neighboring Rights	The statutory exceptions also apply to the rights of		§ 212

Legal Deposit	Where a library is entitled by law to receive copies of printed work, if special reasons so require, it may make a reproduction of a published work which is considered necessary for the collection of the library but is out of stock.	§ 188.2
	The deposit requirements for the Philippines are contained in Section 191.	§ 191
Importation	Up to 3 copies of works may be imported for use in libraries if the work is not available in the Philippines and several other requirements are met.	§ 190.1
Defined Terms	“Reproduction” is the making of one or more copies, temporary or permanent, in whole or in part, of a work or a sound recording in any manner or form without prejudice to the provision of Section 185 (on fair use).	§ 171.9
	“Published works” means works, which, with the consent of the authors, are made available to the public by wire or wireless means in such a way that members of the public may access these works from a place and time individually chosen by them: Provided, That availability of such copies has been such, as to satisfy the reasonable requirements of the public, having regard to the nature of the work.	§ 171.7

Circumvention provisions?	Yes.		Art. 138 ⁵
Prohibited Acts?	The Act of Circumvention?	Yes.
	Dealing in Devices?
	Providing Services?
Access Control or Owner's Rights Control?	Both. May implement technological measure for the protection of the rights recognized by the present law. An effective technological measure is made through application of an access control or protection measure.		Art. 138 ⁵ (1)-(3)
Exemptions that could be used by libraries?	Owners of rights that have instituted technological measures must provide to the beneficiaries of certain copyright exceptions (including the library exception in Art. 33(1)(e)) the necessary means for lawful access to the work. That provision does not apply if protected works made available to the public, according to the contractual clauses agreed between the parties, so that the members of the public to be permitted to have access to them in any place and at any time chosen, individually.		Art. 138 ⁵ (4)-(5)

Miscellaneous
Public Lending	Lending by libraries does not require permission but the author is entitled to remuneration. The library lending right cannot be waived. Remuneration is not owned for lending by libraries that are part of educational institutions or by public libraries with free access.		Art. 14 ⁴
Analysis, Commentary or Criticism, or for Illustration	It is permitted to use brief quotations from a work for the purpose of analysis, commentary or criticism, or for illustration.		Art. 33(1)(b)

Teaching Purposes	Limited right to use or make copies of isolated articles or brief excerpts from works in publications, television or radio broadcasts or sound or audiovisual recordings for teaching purposes; the representation and execution of a work as part of the activities of educational establishments for specific purposes; or of works for teaching or scientific research.	Art. 33(1)(c); Art. 33(1)(g); Art. 33(2)(d)
Needs of Disabled Persons	Limited right to make copies for the benefit of people with disabilities.	Art. 33(2)(e)
Personal Copying	Limited right to make copies for personal use.	Art. 34(1)
Related Rights	The exceptions in Art. 33 also apply to rights related to copying, including rights associated with performers, producers of recordings and audiovisual works, and radio and television broadcasts.	Art. 112; Art. 116
Defined Terms	“Reproduction” means the making, in whole or in part, of one or more copies of a work, directly or indirectly, temporarily or permanently, by any means and under any form, including the making of any sound or audiovisual recording of a work, as well as its permanent or temporary storage by electronic means. 	Libraries receiving copies of dissertations in compliance with the law obligating deposit of copies may make copies subject to the general conditions of and for the purposes set forth in Article 1275(2). (See Article 1275(4).)
	Copies of dissertations made in electronic form consistent with the foregoing provision may be made available to library users in a manner consistent with Article 1275(1). (See Article 1275(4).)

Replacement
Who can copy?	Public libraries and archives where access to archival documents is not restricted.	Art. 1275(2)(2)
	Conditions: None.
What can be copied?	Works held by the library or archive and lawfully put into civil circulation.

	Conditions:	Single copies. Without consent of the author or other rightsholder. Without payment of a fee to the author or other rightsholder.
Purpose of the copy?	To restore or replace lost or spoiled copies. To provide copies of such work to other libraries or archives (where access to archival documents is not restricted) that have lost them from their collections for any reason.
	Conditions:	No aim to derive profits.
Medium of the copy?	Any. The statute permits copies, in particular in electronic form.
Other provisions?	Must cite the name of the author whose work is being used and the source of the borrowing. Copies made in electronic form consistent with this provision may be made available to library users in a manner consistent with Article 1275(1). (See Article 1275(3).) Libraries receiving copies of dissertations in compliance with the law obligating deposit of copies may make copies subject to the general conditions of and for the purposes set forth in Article 1275(2). (See Article 1275(4).) Copies of dissertations made in electronic form consistent with the foregoing provision may be made available to library users in a manner consistent with Article 1275(1). (See Article 1275(4).)

Research or Study (Articles and Short Works)
Who can copy?	Public libraries and archives where access to archival documents is not restricted.	Art. 1275(5)
	Conditions: None.
What can be copied?	Individual articles and short works lawfully published in collections, newspapers, and other periodicals. Short extracts from other lawfully published written works, with or without illustrations.
	Conditions: Single copies. Without consent of the author or other rightsholder. Without payment of a fee to the author or other rightsholder.
Purpose of the copy?	For scientific and educational purposes, as requested by citizens.
	Conditions: No aim to derive profits.
Medium of the copy?	Any. The statute permits copies, in particular in electronic form.
Other provisions?	Must cite the name of the author whose work is being used and the source of the borrowing.

		Without payment of a fee to the author or other rightsholder.
Purpose of the communication?	To provide temporary and gratuitous use of the originals or copies of the works.
	Conditions:	No aim to derive profits.
		In particular to allow mutual use of library collections.
Medium?	Not limited to any format or medium. However, digital copies of works may be provided only on the premises of the library or archive, and if it is impossible for users to make digital copies of the works.
Other provisions?	None.

Anti-Circumvention of Technological Protection Measures
Circumvention provisions?	Yes.		Art. 1299
Prohibited Acts?	The Act of Circumvention?	Prohibits actions directed at eliminating technological protections.
	Dealing in Devices?	Prohibits preparing, providing, importing a circumvention device, if for purpose of obtaining profit, and if the result is that the technological protection is made impossible or ineffective.
	Providing Services?	Prohibits the rendering of services under similar conditions as dealing in devices.
Access Control or Owner's Rights Control?	Both. The statute refers to controlling access and preventing unauthorized uses.
Exemptions that could be used by libraries?	A provision allows a person who may benefit from a copyright exception to demand of the rightsholder the removal of the technological restriction or to provide an opportunity for use of the work. This provision applies only to certain statutory copyright exceptions, including Article 1274(2), but not Article 1275.		Art. 1299(4)

Miscellaneous
Defined Terms	In the context of the statute on private copying, "reproduction" is defined as "the facsimile reproduction with the help of technical facilities," suggesting that reproduction may include any technological format so long as the reproduction is	Art. 1273(4) a facsimile image.

Needs of the Blind	General provision permitting the making of special formats of works and reproduction and promulgation of works for persons who are blind or partially sighted (starblind). Neither of the two provisions for the blind may apply to works created specifically for use in special formats or to phonograms consisting mainly of musical works.	Art. 1274(2)
Libraries and the Blind	Provision explicitly authorizing libraries to provide to persons who are blind or partially sighted with copies of works created in special formats for temporary use at home and by access through information telecommunication networks. The government is authorized to determine the allowed formats, the procedures for access, and the libraries that may provide networked access.	Art. 1274(2)
Educational Uses	Educational institutions are permitted to make copies of articles and other short, published works and to provide the copies to trainees and pedagogical workers for conducting examinations and self-training.	Art. 1275(6)
Open License	Statutory provision that recognizes a legal effect of a license, whereby the author or other rightsholder grants a license to use a work of science, literature, or the arts by means of a simplified procedure. The terms of the license must be accessible to an indefinite circle of persons such that the licensees can be familiar with the terms before using the work. The licensor has rights against a licensee who does not follow the terms of the license. (The statute does not name any specific license system, but this provision is evidently consistent with Creative Commons and other systems for publicly licensing use of copyrighted works.) Miscellaneous
Prescribed Conditions	The Minister has authority to make regulations "prescribing anything that is by this Act authorised or required to be prescribed."	§ 150
Declarations by Users	The Minister may provide by regulation that a librarian or archivist who is required to be satisfied as to a matter before making or supplying a copy: (a) shall be entitled to rely on a declaration as to that matter, signed by the person requesting the	§ 61(2)

	copy, unless he or she is aware the declaration is false in any material particular; (b) shall not, in such cases as may be prescribed, make or supply a copy to any person in the absence of a declaration by that person.
False Declarations	Where a person requesting a copy makes a declaration that is false in a material particular, the person may in some circumstances be liable for copyright infringement.	§ 61(3)
Additional Exceptions	The Minister has authority to issue orders establishing exceptions in the public interest, subject to evaluation of conditions and equitable remuneration.	§ 86
Research and Private Study	Fair dealing with a literary, dramatic, musical, or artistic work for the purposes of research or private study is allowed.	§ 52
Criticism, Review, and Reporting	Fair dealing for the purposes of criticism or review or for the purpose of report current events is allowed.	§ 53
Fair Dealing	In determining fair dealing, four factors shall be taken into account: (1) the nature of the work in question; (2) the extent and substantiality of that part of the work affected by the act in relation to the whole of the work; (3) the purpose and character of the use; and (4) the effect of the act upon the potential market for, or the commercial value of, the work.	§ 54
Educational Use	Limited right to make copies for educational use.	§§ 56-58
Reprographic Copying by Educational Establishment	Limited right to make reprographic copies of published literary, dramatic, or musical works by or on behalf of an educational establishment for the purposes of instruction.	§ 59

Who can copy?	Librarians of prescribed libraries and archives, or persons acting on their behalf.
	Conditions:	None.
What can be copied?	Articles in periodicals, including accompanying illustrations and the typographical arrangement.
	Parts of literary, dramatic, or musical works, not being articles in periodicals, from published editions, including accompanying illustrations and the typographical arrangement.
	Conditions:	With respect to an article, no person shall be furnished with more than one article contained in the same issue of a periodical.
		With respect to a part of a literary, dramatic work, or musical work, no person shall be furnished with more than one copy of the same material or a copy of more than a reasonable proportion of the work.
A copy cannot be made if or to the extent that there is a licensing scheme under which licenses are available authorizing the making of such copies, and the person making the copies knew or ought to have been aware of that fact.
Purpose of the copy?	For research or study by persons.
	Conditions:	The copies shall be supplied only to persons satisfying the librarian that they require them for the allowed purposes and will not use them for any other purpose.
The copies shall be supplied only to a person satisfying the librarian that his requirement is not related to any similar requirement of another person. Requirements are deemed "similar" if the requirements are for copies of substantially the same material, at substantially the same time, and for substantially the same purpose. Requirements are deemed "related" if those persons receive instruction to which the material is relevant at the same time and place.
Medium of the copy?	Any. See definition of "copy" below.
Other provisions?	The person to whom copies are supplied must pay for them a sum not less than the cost attributable to their production, including a contribution of the general expenses of the library.

Supplying Copies to Other Libraries
Who can copy?	Librarians of prescribed libraries and archives, or persons acting on their behalf.	§ 70
	Conditions: None.
What can be copied?	Articles in periodicals, including accompanying illustrations and the typographical arrangement.
	Whole or parts of literary, dramatic, or musical works from published editions, including accompanying illustrations and the typographical arrangement.
	Conditions: For works other than articles, the copy cannot be made if the librarian making it knows or could, by reasonable inquiry, ascertain the name and address of a person entitled to authorize the making of the copy.
Purpose of the copy?	To supply a copy to another prescribed library or archive.
	Conditions: None.
Medium of the copy?	Any. See definition of "copy" below.

Preservation and Replacement
Who can copy?	Librarians of prescribed libraries and archives, or persons acting on their behalf.	§ 71
	Conditions: None.
What can be copied?	Literary, dramatic, or musical works in the permanent collection of the library or archive, including accompanying illustrations and the typographical arrangement.
	Conditions: Prescribed conditions shall include provisions restricting the making of copies to cases where it is not reasonably practicable to purchase a copy of the item in question for the purpose.
Purpose of the copy?	To preserve or replace the item by placing the copy in such permanent collection in addition to or in place of the item.
	To replace in the permanent collection of another prescribed library or archive an item which has been lost, destroyed, or damaged.
	Conditions: None.
Medium of the copy?	Any. See definition of "copy" below.

Research or Study (Unpublished Works)
Who can copy?	Librarians of prescribed libraries and archives, or persons acting on their behalf.	§ 72
	Conditions: None.
What can be copied?	Whole or parts of unpublished literary, dramatic, or musical works from documents in the library or archive, including accompanying illustrations.

	Conditions:	A copy cannot be made where the copyright owner has prohibited copying of the work, and at the time of the making of the copy, the librarian ought to have been aware of that fact. No person may be furnished with any more than one copy of the same material. A copy cannot be made if or to the extent that there is a licensing scheme under which licenses are available authorizing the making of such copies, and the person making the copies knew or ought to have been aware of that fact.
Purpose of the copy?	For research or study by persons.
	Conditions:	The copies shall be supplied only to persons satisfying the librarian that they require them for the allowed purposes and will not use them for any other purpose.
Medium of the copy?	Any. See definition of "copy" below.
Other provisions?	The person to whom copies are supplied must pay for them a sum not less than the cost attributable to their production, including a contribution of the general expenses of the library.

Anti-Circumvention of Technological Protection Measures
Circumvention provisions?	None.

Miscellaneous
Relationship to Fair Dealing	Copying for personal use other than by the research or student himself is not fair dealing if in the case of the librarian, or a person acting on behalf of a librarian, he does anything which regulations under Section 68 would not permit to be done under Sections 69 or 70.	§ 56
Declarations	Regulations may provide that a librarian or archivist who is required to be satisfied as to a matter before making or supplying a copy of a work is entitled to rely on a declaration as to that matter signed by the person requesting the copy, unless he is aware that the declaration is false in any material particular; and in such cases as may be prescribed, shall not make or supply a copy to any person in the absence of a declaration by that person. Where a person requesting a copy makes a declaration that is false in a material particular and is	§ 68(2) supplied with a copy which would have been an infringing copy if made by him, that person shall be liable for infringement of copyright as if he had reproduced the copy himself, and the copy supplied shall be treated as an infringing copy.

Defined Terms	“Copy” in relation to – (a) a work that is a literary, dramatic, musical, or artistic work, means a reproduction of a work in any material form, and, in respect of an artistic work, includes a reproduction in three dimensions, if the artistic work is a two-dimensional work and a reproduction in two dimensions, if the artistic work is a three-dimensional work; and in respect of a literary, dramatic, or musical work, includes a reproduction in the form of a record or film; (b) a work that is a film, television broadcast, or cable program, includes a photograph of the whole or any substantial part of any image forming part of the film, broadcast, or cable program; (c) a work that is a typographical arrangement of a published edition means a facsimile copy of the arrangement; and (d) any category of work includes any copy of the work, however made and in whatever medium, that is transient or incidental to some other use of the work; and copy includes storing a work of any description in any medium by electronic means.	§ 3

	Parts of literary, dramatic, or musical works from published editions, including accompanying illustrations and the typographical arrangement.
	Conditions: With respect to parts of literary, dramatic, or musical works, the copy cannot be made if the librarian making it knows or could, by reasonable inquiry, ascertain the name and address of a person entitled to authorize the making of the copy.
Purpose of the copy?	To supply a copy to another prescribed library or archive.
	Conditions: None.
Medium of the copy?	Any. See definition of "copy" below.

Preservation and Replacement
Who can copy?	Librarians of prescribed libraries and archives, including persons acting on their behalf.	§ 65
	Conditions: None.
What can be copied?	Literary, dramatic, or musical works in the permanent collection of the library or archive, including accompanying illustrations and the typographical arrangement.
	Conditions: Prescribed conditions shall include provisions restricting the making of copies to cases where it is not reasonably practicable to purchase a copy of the item in question for the purpose.
Purpose of the copy?	To preserve or replace the item by placing the copy in such permanent collection in addition to or in place of the item.
	To replace in the permanent collection of another prescribed library or archive an item which has been lost, destroyed, or damaged.
	Conditions: None.
Medium of the copy?	Any. See definition of "copy" below.

Who can copy?	Librarians of prescribed libraries and archives, including persons acting on their behalf.	§ 66
	Conditions: None.
What can be copied?	Whole or parts of unpublished literary, dramatic, or musical works from documents in the library or archive, including accompanying illustrations.

	Conditions:	The copying is not permitted where the work has been published at the time when the copies are made.
		A copy cannot be made where the copyright owner has prohibited copying of the work, and at the time of the making of the copy, the librarian ought to have been aware of that fact.
		No person may be furnished with any more than one copy of the same material.
		A copy cannot be made if or to the extent that there is a licensing scheme under which licenses are available authorizing the making of such copies, and the person making the copies knew or ought to have been aware of that fact.
Purpose of the copy?	For research or private study by persons.
	Conditions:	The copies shall be supplied only to persons satisfying the librarian that they require them for the allowed purposes and will not use them for any other purpose.
Medium of the copy?	Any. See definition of "copy" below.
Other provisions?	The person to whom copies are supplied must pay for them a sum not less than the cost attributable to their production, including a contribution of the general expenses of the library.

Anti-Circumvention of Technological Protection Measures

Circumvention provisions?	None.

Miscellaneous

Relationship to Fair Dealing	Copying by a person other than a researcher or student is not fair dealing if in the case of the librarian, or a person acting on behalf of a librarian, he does anything which regulations would not permit to be done under Sections 62(a) or 63(1)(b).	§ 50(2)
Declarations	Regulations may provide that a librarian or archivist who is required to be satisfied as to a matter before making or supplying a copy of a work is entitled to rely on a declaration as to that matter signed by the person requesting the copy, unless he is aware that the declaration is false in any material particular; and in such cases as may be prescribed, shall not make or supply a copy to any person in the absence of a declaration by that person.	§ 62(2)-(3)

	Where a person requesting a copy makes a declaration that is false in a material particular and is supplied with a copy which would have been an infringing copy if made by him, that person shall be liable for infringement of copyright as if he had reproduced the copy himself, and the copy supplied shall be treated as an infringing copy.
Defined Term	“Copy” includes: (a) in relation to a work that is literary, dramatic, musical or artistic work, a reproduction of the work in any material form; or (b) in respect of an artistic work, a reproduction in three dimensions, if the artistic work is a two-dimensional work and a reproduction in two dimensions if the artistic work is a three-dimensional work; or (c) in respect of a literary, dramatic or musical work includes a reproduction in the form of a record or film; (d) in relation to a work that is a film, television broadcast, or cable program includes a photograph of the whole or any substantial part of any image forming part of the film, broadcast or cable program; (e) in relation to a work that is a typographical arrangement of a published edition, a facsimile copy of the arrangement; and (f) any category however made and in whatever medium, that is transient or is incidental to some other use of the work; and (g) references to the “copying of a work of any description” shall be construed to include a reference to storing the work in any medium by electronic means.	§ 2

SINGAPORE

Research or Study
Who can copy?	Authorized officers of libraries and archives.		§ 45
	Conditions:	The library may not be conducted for the profit, direct or indirect, of an individual or individuals.
What can be copied?	Whole or parts of articles contained in periodical publications, including accompanying illustrations in the whole or in the parts that were used to illustrate or explain that part (§ 50). See definition of "article" below.
	Whole or parts of published literary, dramatic or musical works, including accompanying illustrations (§50).
	Conditions:	With respect to articles, a copy may not be made where the request is for a copy of, or parts of, two or more articles contained in the same periodical publication unless the articles relate to the same subject-matter. (§ 45(4)).
		With respect to literary, dramatic, or musical works, a copy may not be made where the request is for a copy of the whole work (other than an article) or to a copy of a part of such work that contains more than a reasonable portion of the work unless the work is part of the library or archives collection and an authorized officer has after reasonable investigation, made a declaration stating that he is satisfied that a copy, not being a secondhand copy, of the work cannot be obtained within a reasonable time at an ordinary commercial price. (§ 45(5)). (Note: "Reasonable portion" is a defined term consisting of precise page number or percentage requirements depending on several circumstances. See § 7.)
Purpose of the copy?	For research or study of an individual person.
	Conditions:	The person must submit a declaration, as detailed below.
		The officer may not copy an item where the declaration contains a statement that to his knowledge is untrue in a material particular.
		The copy must be supplied to the person who made the request,

		otherwise it is treated as an infringing copy. (§ 45(6)-(7)). However, this does not apply to electronic copies of an article or other published work in relation to a request for communication to the person who made the request unless, before or when the electronic copy is communicated to the person, a notice is given to the person in accordance with regulations stating that the electronic copy has been made under this section and the article or work might be subject to copyright and other matters as prescribed by regulation, or as soon as practicable after the electronic copy is communicated to the person, the electronic copy held by the library or archive is destroyed. (§ 45(9))
Medium of the copy?	Any. See special requirements for electronic copies, § 45(7A)-(9).
Other provisions?	This provision permits the authorized officers to make, cause to be made, and supply copies to individuals.
	Declaration: A person must furnish a request in writing to the officer-in-charge of the library or archive. The declaration must be signed by the person and state that he requires the copy for the purpose of research or study and will not use it for any other purpose and that the person has not previously been supplied with a copy of that article or other work, or the same part of the article or other work, by an authorized officer of the library or archives, or that the person has lost, destroyed, or damaged any such copy previously supplied to him.
	Cost: Where a charge is made for making and supplying a copy to which a request relates, a copy may not be made if the amount of the charge exceeds the cost of making and supplying the copy and a reasonable contribution to the general expenses of the library.	§ 45(1)
	Making available: If an article or other published work is acquired, in electronic form, as part of the collection of a library or archives, the copyright in the article or published work is not infringed by the officer-in-charge of the library or archives making it available online within the premises of the library or archives in such a manner that users cannot, by using any equipment supplied by the library or archives make an electronic copy of the article or work or communicate the article or work.	§ 45 (7A)

	Notation: The person or body may not rely upon § 45 in infringement proceedings unless at or about the time the copy was made, there was made on the copy a notation stating that the copy was made on behalf of that institution and the date on which it was made.	§ 201

	Declaration: As soon as practicable after the request was made, an authorized officer of the library must make a declaration that sets out particulars of the request (including the purpose for which the copy was requested), and stating, in a case where a copy of the whole or a part of the article or other work had previously been supplied by request for inclusion in the collection of the library that the previous copy so supplied had been lost, destroyed, or damaged, or in the case where the copy was a copy of the whole of a literary, dramatic, or musical work (other than an article contained in a periodical) or of a part of such a work that contains more than a reasonable portion of the work, that the copy was made and supplied as part of an inter-library arrangement which does not have effect or the purpose of enabling participating libraries to receive copies of the whole works or parts thereof, by way of systematic reproduction and supply of copies, in such aggregate quantities as substitutes for a subscription to or purchase of such works.	§ 46(7)
	Infringement action: Where an authorized officer of a library makes a copy of the whole or part of a work and supplies it to the officer in charge of another library in accordance with the requirements of the statute, the copy is deemed to have been made on behalf of the requesting library for the purpose of which the copy was requested, and an action shall not be brought against the administering body of the library who fulfills the request for infringement as a result of making and supplying that copy. § 46(3). Where a copy of the whole or part of an article or of any other published literary, dramatic, or musical work, is deemed under (3) to have been made on behalf of an authorized officer of a library, the copyright in the article or other work is not infringed by the making of the copy. This provision may be excluded by regulation. § 46(5)	§ 46(3)-(4)
	Cost: Where a charge is made for making and supplying a copy to which a request relates, a copy may not be made if the amount of the charge exceeds the cost of making and supplying the copy and a reasonable contribution to the general expenses of the library.	§ 46(6)
	Notation: The person or body may not rely upon § 46 in infringement proceedings unless at or about the time the copy was made, there was made on the copy a notation stating that the copy was made on behalf of that institution and the date on which it was made.	§ 201

Research or Study or with a View to Publication (Unpublished Works)

Who can copy?	Persons.		§ 47(1)
	By on or the behalf of officers-in-charge of the library or archives.
	Conditions:	None.
What can be copied?	Unpublished works (the originals or copies) that are kept in the collection of the library or archives.
	Conditions:	The work must be open to public inspection, subject to any regulations governing the collection.
		Copyright must subsist in the work.
		More than 50 years must have passed after the expiration of the calendar year in which the author of a literary, dramatic, or musical work, or of an artistic work being a photograph or engraving, died, and more than 75 years must have passed after the time at which, or the expiration of the period during which, the work was made.
Purpose of the copy?	For research, study, or with a view to publication of an individual.
	Conditions:	If the copy is made by the officer-in-charge of the library or archives, the person must satisfy the officer-in-charge that he requires the copy or work for the purpose of research or study or with a view to publication and will not use it for any other purpose.
Medium of the copy?	Not specified.
Other provisions?	Making Available: The work may also be communicated under the same conditions as the copying is permitted.
	Theses: Where the original version, or a copy, of a thesis or other similar literary work that has not been published is kept in a library of a university or other similar institution or in archives, the copyright in the thesis or other work is not infringed by the making of a copy, or the communication, of the thesis or other work by or on behalf of the officer-in-charge of the library or archives, if the copy, thesis or other work is supplied (whether by communication or otherwise) to a person who satisfies an authorized officer of the library or archives that he requires the copy, thesis or other work for the purpose of research or study.		§ 47(2)
	Publication of unpublished works kept in libraries: § 49 governs the publication of unpublished works to which § 47(1) applied prior to the publication.		§ 49

Purpose of the copy?	For research or study or with a view to publication of an individual.
	Conditions: If the copy is made by the officer-in-charge of the library or archives, the person must satisfy the officer-in-charge that he requires the recording or film for the purpose of research or study or with a view to publication and will not use it for any other purpose.
Medium of the copy?	Not specified.
Other provisions?	Making Available: The work may also be communicated under the same conditions as the copying is permitted.

Preservation, Replacement, and Other Purposes
Who can copy?	By or on the behalf of the officer-in-charge of the library or archives.	§ 48
	Conditions: None.
What can be copied?	Works that form or formed part of the collection of the library or archives, together with accompanying illustrations (§ 50).
	Conditions:	With respect to preservation or research purposes, the work copied must be the original version of the work.
		With respect to replacement purposes, the work must have been held in the collection in a published form.
		With respect to a work held in published form in the collection of a library or archives, an authorized officer of the library or archives must, after reasonable investigation, make a declaration stating that he is satisfied that a copy (not being a secondhand copy) of the work cannot be obtained within a reasonable time at an ordinary commercial price.

		With respect to any other purpose, only a single copy may be made.
Purpose of the copy?	For preserving the work against loss or deterioration.
	For research that is being, or is to be, carried out at the library or archives in which the work is held, or at another library or archives.
	For replacing the work, if the work has been damaged, has deteriorated, or has been lost or stolen.
	For any purpose other than the above-mentioned purposes.
	Conditions:	None.
Medium of the copy?	Not specified.
Other provisions?	Unpublished work: Where a copy of an unpublished work is made by or on behalf of the officer-in-charge of a library or archives for the purpose of research that is being, or is to be, carried out at another library or archives, the supply of the copy does not constitute publication of the work.		§ 48(4)
	Notation: The person or body may not rely upon § 48 in infringement proceedings unless at or about the time the copy was made, there was made on the copy a notation stating that the copy was made on behalf of that institution and the date on which it was made.		§ 201

What can be copied?	Unpublished works, currently in the collection of the institution.
	Conditions:	Not more than one copy of a reasonable portion of the work, having regard to the totality and meaning of the work.
Purpose of the copy?	For preservation and security.
	For deposit for research in another qualifying institution.
	Conditions:	The reproduction and distribution must be made without any intention of deriving indirect commercial advantage.
Medium of copy?	Duplicated in facsimile form.
	Conditions:	None.
Other provisions?	This provision permits reproduction and distribution.
	The copy shall incorporate a copyright warning.
	The cumulative effect of the reproduction does not conflict with the normal exploitation of the work to the unreasonable prejudice of the legal interest and residuary rights of the author.

Replacement (Published Work)
Who can copy?	Library or archives depot, including employees acting within the scope of employment.		Reg. 3 Reg. 2
	Conditions:	The collections of the library or archives must be open to the public or available not only to researchers affiliated with the library or archives or with the institution of which it is a part, but also to other persons doing research in a specialized field.
What can be copied?	Published works.
	Conditions:	Not more than one copy of a reasonable portion of the work, having regard to the totality and meaning of the work.
		Reproduction is permitted where the institution has determined, after a reasonable effort, that an unused replacement cannot be obtained at a fair price.
Purpose of the copy?	For replacement of a copy that is deteriorating or that is damaged, lost, or stolen.
	Conditions:	The reproduction and distribution must be made without any intention of deriving indirect commercial advantage.
Medium of copy?	Duplicated in facsimile form.
	Conditions:	None.
Other provisions?	The copy shall incorporate a copyright warning.
	The cumulative effect of the reproduction does not conflict with the normal exploitation of the work to the unreasonable prejudice of the legal interest and residuary rights of the author.

	Conditions: Computer programs are excluded.
Purpose of the copy?	For preservation.
	Conditions: None.
Medium of the copy?	Not specified; "copy" is not defined.

Completion
Who can copy?	Public libraries.	Art. 16; Reg. 1993: 1212, § 2
	Scientific and research libraries that are operated by public authorities.
	Governmental and municipal archival authorities.
	The National Archive for Recorded Sound and Moving Images.
	Certain other archives and libraries designated by the Government.
	Conditions: None.
What can be copied?	Works.
	Conditions:		Computer programs are excluded.
			Reproduction is permitted where the incomplete work has been published in parts and the missing part cannot be acquired in the market.
Purpose of the copy?	For completion of incomplete works in collections.
	Conditions: None.
Medium of the copy?	Not specified.
Other provisions?	A work may also be copied if the work cannot be acquired on the market and the reproduction takes place at an archive or in a library which is entitled to receive statutory deposit copies of the actual type of productions.

	This exception for completion also applies to protected performances, sound recordings, broadcasts, and databases.

Research
Who can copy?	Public libraries.	Art. 16

Circumvention provisions?	Yes.
Prohibited Acts?	The Act of Circumvention?	Circumvention is prohibited. However, the prohibition does not apply when someone, who in a lawful way has access to a copy of a work protected by copyright, circumvents a technological measure in order to be able to watch or listen to the work.	Art. 52d
	Dealing in Devices?	Manufacturing, importing, transferring, distributing by sale or rental, or possessing for commercial purposes a circumvention device is prohibited.	Art. 52e
	Providing Services?	Making available circumvention services is prohibited.
Access Control or Owner's Rights Control?	Owner's Rights Control. The provisions relate to technological measures that are designed to prevent or restrict the reproduction or the making available to the public of a copyright-protected work without the consent of the author.		Art. 52b
Exemptions that could be used by libraries?	Anyone who, pursuant to the library provisions (and other specified provisions), is entitled to exploit a work protected by copyright shall be entitled to make use of a copy of a work that he lawfully has access to, notwithstanding the fact that the copy is protected by a technological measure.		Art. 52f
	Conditions:	This exemption does not apply to works that have been made available to the public in accordance with agreed contractual stipulations in a way that makes it possible for members of the public to get access to the work by means of a communication from a place and a time that they themselves have chosen.

Other provisions?	Where a technological measure prevents a use in the exemption cited above, a Court may, at the request by a user entitled to that use, order, upon penalty of a fine, the author (or his successor in title) to make it possible for the user to exploit the work in the way prescribed in the provision referred to.

Miscellaneous
Collective License	Where a collective license applies, and if the author has not made a prohibition against such use, the libraries and archives within Article 16 are entitled to make copies of works that are from their own collections and that already have been made public, and make the copies available to the public.	Art. 42d
Needs of Disabled Persons	Libraries are specifically authorized to make copies of works under detailed conditions to serve the needs of persons with disabilities. Libraries making copies under such provision to give to users may be required to pay remuneration to rightsholders.	Art. 17
Private Copying	Anyone (which presumably includes libraries) may make copies of many types of works for private use only.	Art. 12

UGANDA

General Library Exception
Who can copy?	Public library, non-commercial documentation center, scientific institution, or educational institute.	§ 15(1)(j)
	Conditions: None.
What can be copied?	Literary, artistic, or scientific work.
	Conditions: In its original language or in a translation.
Purpose of the copy?	Not specified.
	Conditions: None.
Medium of the copy?	Any. See definition of "reproduction."
Other provisions?	Subject to conditions prescribed by the Minister.
	Reproduction and the copies made do not conflict with the normal exploitation of the work reproduced.
	Reproduction and the copies made do not unreasonably affect the right of the author in the work.
	Section 15(1) opens by referring to the listed uses as "fair use" of a protected work. Section 15(2) specifies the four factors as indicated below. The statute is unclear about whether fair use is a separate exception or is a four-factor analysis applicable to the uses in Section 15(1).

Anti-Circumvention of Technological Protection Measures
Circumvention provisions?	None.

Miscellaneous
Personal Use	Limited right to produce, translate, adapt, arrange, or otherwise transform a work for private personal use.	§ 15(1)(a)
Quotation	Limited right to quote from a published work, where the quotation is compatible with fair practice, the extent of the quotation does not exceed what is justified for the purpose of the use, and acknowledgement is given to the original work.	§ 15(1)(b)
Teaching Purposes	Limited right to use a published work for teaching purposes in so far as the use is compatible with fair practice and acknowledgement is given to the work and the author.	§ 15(1)(c); § 15(1)(d)
Persons with Disabilities	It is permitted to transcribe any work into braille or sign language for the educational purpose of persons with disabilities.	§ 15(1)(k)

Fair Use	In determining whether a use is fair use, the following factors shall be considered: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> (a) the purpose and character of the use; (b) the nature of the protected work (though the fact that a work is not published shall not of itself prejudice the requirement of fair use.); (c) the amount and substantiality of the portion used in relation to the protected work as a whole; and (d) the effect of the use upon the potential market for value of the protected work. The fact that a piece of work is not published shall not of itself prejudice the requirement of fair use in accordance with the four factors.	§ 15(2); § 15(3)
Berne Appendix	The Act includes provisions implementing the Appendix to the Berne Convention, allowing reproductions, translations, and broadcasts of certain works under specified conditions for teaching, scholarship, or research.	§ 17; § 18; § 19
Defined Terms	“Copy” means a production of a work in a written, recorded, or fixation form or in any other material form, but an object shall not be taken to be a copy of an architectural work unless the object is a building or a model.	§ 2
	“Minister” means the Minister responsible for justice.	§ 2
	“Reproduction” means the making of one or more copies of a work or sound recording in any manner or form including any permanent or temporary storage of the work or sound recording in electronic form.	§ 2

UNITED KINGDOM

Research or Study (Making Available)
Who can copy?	Library, archive, museum, or educational establishment.	§ 40B
	Conditions: None.
What can be copied?	A work or a copy of a work.
	Conditions: Must be lawfully acquired by the institution.
	Use complies with any purchase or license terms.
Purpose of the copy?	To communicate the work or make it available to individual members of the public for research or private study.
	Conditions:
Medium of the copy?	Via dedicated terminals on the premises of the institution.
Other provisions?	A parallel provision applies similar terms to the use of recordings of performances. See Schedule 2, new Paragraph 6C.

Supply of Copies to Other Libraries
Who can copy?	A librarian.	§ 41
	Conditions:
What can be copied?	Whole or part of a published work.
	Conditions: Single copy.
	At the time of making the copy, the librarian does not know, or could not reasonably find out, the name and address of a person entitled to authorize the making of a copy of the work. This condition does not apply to making a copy of an article in a periodical.
Purpose of the copy?	To supply it in response to a request from a library.
	Conditions: The requesting library is not conducted for profit.
Medium of the copy?	Any. See definition of "copying."
Other provisions?	Where a library makes a charge for supplying a copy, the amount charged must be calculated by reference to the costs attributable to the production of the copy.
	To the extent that a term in a contract purports to prevent or restrict the doing of any act which, by virtue of this section, would not infringe copyright, that term is unenforceable.
	A parallel provision applies similar terms to the use of published recordings of performances. See Schedule 2, new Paragraph 6D.

Preservation and Replacement
Who can copy?	A librarian, archivist, or curator of a library, archive, or museum.		§ 42
	Conditions:	None.
What can be copied?	An item in that institution's permanent collections.
	Conditions:	It is not reasonably practicable to purchase a copy of the item to achieve the purpose.
		The item is included in the part of the collection kept wholly or mainly for the purposes of reference on the institution's premises; or is included in a part of the collection not accessible to the public; or is available on loan only to other libraries, archives, or museums.
Purpose of the copy?	To preserve or replace the item in the collection.
	Conditions:	None.
Medium of the copy?	Any.
Other provisions?	For this section, "item" means a work or a copy of a work.
	To the extent that a term in a contract purports to prevent or restrict the doing of any act which, by virtue of this section, would not infringe copyright, that term is unenforceable.
	A parallel provision applies similar terms to the use of recordings of performances (Schedule 2, new Paragraph 6E).

Replacement of Works in Another Collection
Who can copy?	A librarian, archivist, or curator of a library, archive, or museum.		§ 42
	Conditions:	The library, archive, or museum may not be conducted for profit.
What can be copied?	An item in the permanent collections of another library, archive, or museum.
	Conditions:	The item has been lost, destroyed, or damaged.
		It is not reasonably practicable to purchase a copy of the item to achieve the purpose.
		The item is included in the part of the collection kept wholly or mainly for the purposes of reference on the institution's premises; or included in a part of the collection not accessible to the public; or available on loan only to other libraries, archives or museums.
Purpose of the copy?	To replace an item in the permanent collection of that library, archive, or museum.
	Conditions:	None.
Medium of the copy?	Any.

Other provisions?	Where an institution makes a charge for supplying a copy to another institution, the amount charged must be calculated by reference to the costs attributable to the production of the copy.
	For this section, "item" means a work or a copy of a work.
	To the extent that a term in a contract purports to prevent or restrict the doing of any act which, by virtue of this section, would not infringe copyright, that term is unenforceable.
	A parallel provision applies similar terms to the use of recordings of performances. See Schedule 2, new Paragraph 6E.

Copies for Research or Study (Published Works)
Who can copy?	Librarian.	§ 42A
	Conditions: Of a library that is not conducted for profit.
What can be copied?	An article in any one issue of a periodical, or a reasonable proportion of any other published work.
	Conditions: Single copy.
Purpose of the copy?	To supply a copy for the purpose of research for a non-commercial purpose or private study.
	Conditions:	The copy is supplied in response to a request from a person who has provided the librarian with a declaration in writing (including electronic format) containing the information specified in the statute, and the librarian is not aware that the declaration is false in any material particular.
Medium of the copy?	Any.
Other provisions?	The declaration must state: (a) the name of the person who requires the copy and the material required; (b) that the person has not previously been supplied with a copy of that material by any library; (c) that the person requires the copy for the purpose of research for a non-commercial purpose or private study and will use it only for those purposes, and will not supply the copy to any other person; and (d) that to the best of that person's knowledge no other person with whom the person works or studies has made or intends to make at or about the same time as the person's request, a request for substantially the same material for substantially the same purpose.
	If the person makes a declaration that is false in any material particular and is supplied with a copy that would have been an infringing copy if made by the person, the person is liable for infringement as if he had made it himself and the copy is treated as an infringing copy.

	Where a library makes a charge for supplying a copy, the amount charged must be calculated by reference to the costs attributable to the production of the copy.
	To the extent that a term in a contract purports to prevent or restrict the doing of any act which, by virtue of this section, would not infringe copyright, that term is unenforceable.
	A parallel provision applies similar terms to the use of published recordings of performances. See Schedule 2, Paragraph 6F.

Copies for Research or Study (Unpublished Works)
Who can copy?	Librarian or archivist.	§ 43
	Conditions: None.
What can be copied?	The whole or part of a work.
	Conditions: Single copy. (a) The work had not been published or communicated to the public before the date that it was deposited in the library or archive; or (b) the copyright owner has not prohibited the copying of the work and at the time of making the copy the librarian or archivist is, or ought to be, aware of that fact.
Purpose of the copy?	To supply a copy for the purpose of research for a non-commercial purpose or private study.
	Conditions: The copy is supplied in response to a request from a person who has provided the librarian or archivist with a declaration in writing (including electronic format) containing the information specified in the statute, and the librarian or archivist is not aware that the declaration is false in any material particular.
Medium of the copy?	Any.
Other provisions?	The declaration must state: (a) the name of the person who requires the copy and the material required; (b) that the person has not previously been supplied with that material by any library or archive; and (c) that the person requires the copy for the purpose of research for a non-commercial purpose or private study, will use it only for those purposes and will not supply the copy to any other person.
	If the person makes a declaration that is false in any material particular and is supplied a copy that would have been an infringement if made by the person, the person is liable for infringement as if he had made the copy himself and the copy is treated as an infringing copy.

	Where a library makes a charge for supplying a copy, the amount charged must be calculated by reference to the costs attributable to the production of the copy.
	A parallel provision applies similar terms to the use of unpublished recordings of performances. See Schedule 2, Paragraph 6G.

Anti-Circumvention of Technological Protection Measures
Circumvention provisions?	Yes.		§§ 296ZA-296ZF
Prohibited Acts?	The Act of Circumvention?	Prohibits circumvention when the person knows he is pursuing that objective.
	Dealing in Devices?	Manufacturing, importing, selling circumvention devices is prohibited.
	Providing Services?	Providing, prohibiting, advertising services is prohibited.
Access Control or Owner's Rights Control?	Both.
Exemptions that could be used by libraries?	If the TPM prevents the exercise of acts permitted by the copyright exceptions, the user may seek an order from the government allowing circumvention for the purposes of carrying out acts permitted by the exceptions. The relevant exceptions include the following library and archive exceptions: Sections 41, 42, 42A, and 43 as well as other provisions of possible relevance to libraries. See Schedule 5A of the Copyright, Designs, and Patent Act of 1988.		§ 296ZE

Defined Terms	For Sections 40A to 43, the following definitions apply: "Library" means a library that is publicly accessible or a library of an educational establishment. "Museum" includes a gallery. "Conducted for profit" in relation to a library, archive, or museum means a body of the kind which is established or conducted for profit or which forms part of, or is administered by, a body established or conducted for profit. References to a librarian, archivist, or curator include a person acting on behalf of a librarian, archivist, or curator.	§ 43A
Defined Terms	Copying in relation to a literary, dramatic, musical or artistic work means reproducing the work in any material form. This includes storing the work in any medium by electronic means.	§ 17(2) is directly or indirectly for a commercial purpose.

	“Public library” means a library administered by or on behalf of a local government library authority as defined by the Public Libraries and Museums Act 1964, the Public Libraries (Scotland) Act 1955 and the Education and Libraries (Northern Ireland) Order 1986.	§ 178
	“Writing” includes any form of notation or code, whether by hand or otherwise and regardless of the method by which, or medium in or on which, it is recorded	§ 178
Public Lending	Lending of a book by a public library within the public lending right is not an infringement. Such a library may also make a copy and lend a copy of an audio-book or e-book, where the copy is incidental to the lending.	§ 40A(1)
Lending	A library, other than a public library, which is not conducted for profit, or an educational establishment, may lend a work without infringing copyright.	§§ 36A & 40A(2)
Recordings of Folksongs	Detailed provisions allow nonprofit archives to make copies of recordings of folksongs.	§ 61
Recordings of Broadcasts	Recordings of broadcasts allowed for deposit with nonprofit archives. See also Schedule 2, Paragraph 21(b).	§ 75
Orphan Works	Set of provisions for implementation of the European Union Directive 2012/28/EU on orphan works. The statute references Schedule ZA1, which sets forth most of the details of the conditions for use of orphan works.	§§ 44B & 76A
	The statutes also include a governmental licensing scheme for orphan works and for orphaned recordings of performances, beyond requirements of the E.U. directive. The statutes also provide for extended collective licensing that can support mass digitization of copyrighted works and recordings of performances, including orphan works. (See also Schedule 2A.)	§§ 116A to 116D
Private Copying	Permits copies of most works for personal use. Contracts that purport to prevent or restrict such uses are not enforceable.	§ 28B
Private Study or Research	Fair dealing of works for noncommercial research or private study is permitted. Libraries or archives may make copies on behalf of individuals, but only within the parameters of Section 42A. Contracts that purport to prevent or restrict such uses are not enforceable.	§ 29
Text and Data Analysis	Permits copying of works for purposes of computational analysis of the content for noncommercial research. Contracts that purport to prevent or restrict such uses are not enforceable.	§ 29A
Needs of Disabled Persons	Multiple provisions allowing copies and uses of diverse works to meet the needs of persons with disabilities.	§§ 31A to 31F

Educational Uses	Multiple provisions allowing diverse uses of works in connection with education. Contracts that purport to prevent or restrict some uses are not enforceable.	§§ 32 to 36A
Quotation Right	Right to make a quotation from a work that has been made available to the public, within fair dealing, subject to conditions in the statute. A parallel provision applies similar terms to performances and recordings (see Schedule 2, Paragraph 2(1)). Contracts that purport to prevent or restrict such uses are not enforceable (Section 30(4)).	§ 30(1ZA)
Export Copies	If a work of cultural or historical importance may not be exported unless a copy is made and deposited in a library or archives, that copy is not an infringement.	§ 44
Legal Deposit	Permits copying of works from the internet by deposit libraries for fulfillment of the legal deposit requirement.	§ 44A

Remuneration to author?	No. The use is permitted without obligation to pay remuneration.
Who can copy?	Public libraries, non-commercial documentation centers, scientific institutions, and educational establishments.	§ 12(7)
	Conditions: None.
What can be copied?	Literary and artistic works that have been lawfully made available to the public.
	Conditions: The reproduction, number of copies made, and use thereof must be limited to the purpose.
Purpose of the copy?	For the needs of the regular activities of the entity reproducing the work.
	Conditions: None.
Medium of the copy?	Reproduction by photography of sound or video recording, or electronic storage.
Other provisions?	The reproduction must neither conflict with the normal exploitation of the work nor unreasonably prejudice the legitimate interests of the author.	§ 12(1)
	The use is permitted in the original or in a translation.

Anti-Circumvention of Technological Protection Measures
Circumvention provisions?	Yes.	§ 44(1) (i)
Prohibited Acts?	Circumvention?		No.
	Dealing in Devices?		Manufacturing a circumvention device or importing it for sale or rental is prohibited.
	Providing Services?		No.
Access Control or Owner's Rights Control?	Owner's Rights Control. The provisions relate to technical means that prevent or restrict reproduction of a work or impair the quality of copies made.
Exemptions that could be used by libraries?	There are no explicit exemptions for circumvention.

Preservation, Security, or Deposit in Another Library
Who can copy?	Libraries or archives, including employees acting within the scope of employment.		§ 108(a); § 108(b)
	Conditions:	The collections of the library or archives must be open to the public or available not only to researchers affiliated with the library or archives or with the institution of which it is a part, but also to other persons doing research in a specialized field.
What can be copied?	Unpublished works, currently in the collection of the institution.
	Conditions:	Three copies can be made.
Purpose of the copy?	For preservation and security.
	For deposit for research in another qualifying institution.
	Conditions:	The reproduction and distribution must be made without any purpose of direct or indirect commercial advantage.
Medium of copy?	Copies and phonorecords. See definitions below.
	Conditions:	Copies made in digital format may not be made available to the public in that format outside the premises of the institution.
Other provisions?	This provision permits reproduction and distribution.
	The copy must include the notice of copyright from the work or, if no such notice can be found on the work, a legend stating that the work may be protected by copyright.

Replacement
Who can copy?	Libraries or archives, including employees acting within the scope of employment.		§ 108(a); § 108(c)
	Conditions:	The collections of the library or archives must be open to the public or available not only to researchers affiliated with the library or archives or with the institution of which it is a part, but also to other persons doing research in a specialized field.
What can be copied?	Published works.
	Conditions:	Three copies can be made.
		Reproduction is permitted where the institution has determined, after a reasonable effort, that an unused replacement cannot be obtained at a fair price.

Purpose of the copy?	For replacement of a copy that is damaged, deteriorating, lost, or stolen, or if the existing format in which the work is stored has become obsolete. (A format is “obsolete” if the necessary machine or device is no longer manufactured or is no longer reasonably available in the commercial marketplace.)
	Conditions:	The reproduction and distribution must be made without any purpose of direct or indirect commercial advantage.
Medium of copy?	Copies and phonorecords. See definitions below.
	Conditions:	Copies made in digital format may not be otherwise distributed in that format or made available to the public in that format outside the premises of the institution.
Other provisions?	The copy must include the notice of copyright from the work, or if no such notice can be found on the work, a legend stating that the work may be protected by copyright.

Research or Study (Articles and Short Works)
Who can copy?	Libraries or archives, including employees acting within the scope of employment.		§ 108(a); § 108(d)
	Conditions:	The collections of the library or archives must be open to the public or available not only to researchers affiliated with the library or archives or with the institution of which it is a part, but also to other persons doing research in a specialized field.
What can be copied?	Single articles or other contributions to a copyrighted collection or periodical issue, including illustrations, diagrams, or similar adjuncts to works, from the collection of the institution or another qualifying institution.
	One small part of other works, from the collection of the institution or another qualifying institution.
	Conditions:	Only a single copy can be made.
		The work may not be a musical work, a pictorial, graphic or sculptural work, or a motion picture or other audiovisual work other than an audiovisual work dealing with the news, but the copy may include pictorial or graphic works included as illustrations or other adjuncts to works otherwise allowed (Section 108(i)).

Purpose of the copy?	For private study, scholarship, or research, by request of a user.
	Conditions:	The library or archives must not have notice that the copy is for any purpose other than the permitted purposes.
		The copy must become the property of the user.
		The reproduction and distribution must be made without any purpose of direct or indirect commercial advantage.
Medium of copy?	Copies and phonorecords. See definitions below.
Other provisions?	This provision permits reproduction and distribution.
	The library must display prominently, at the place where orders are accepted, and include on its order form, a warning of copyright in accordance with regulations from the U.S. Copyright Office.
	The copy must include the notice of copyright from the work, or if no such notice can be found on the work, a legend stating that the work may be protected by copyright.

Research or Study (Entire Works)
Who can copy?	Libraries or archives, including employees acting within the scope of employment.
	Conditions:	The collections of the library or archives must be open to the public or available not only to researchers affiliated with the library or archives or with the institution of which it is a part, but also to other persons doing research in a specialized field.
What can be copied?	Entire works or substantial parts of works, including illustrations, diagrams, or similar adjuncts to works, from the collection of the institution or another qualifying institution.
	Conditions:	Only a single copy can be made.
		The institution must first determine, on the basis of a reasonable investigation, that a copy of the work cannot be obtained at a fair price.
	The work may not be a musical work, a pictorial, graphic or sculptural work, or a motion picture or other audiovisual work other than an audiovisual work dealing with the news, but the copy may include pictorial or graphic works included as illustrations or other adjuncts to works otherwise allowed (Section 108(i)).

Purpose of the copy?	For private study, scholarship, or research.
	Conditions:	The library must not have notice that the copy is for any purpose other than the permitted purposes.
		The copy must become the property of the user.
		The reproduction and distribution must be made without any purpose of direct or indirect commercial advantage.
Medium of copy?	Copies and phonorecords. See definitions below.
Other provisions?	This provision permits reproduction and distribution.
	The library must display prominently, at the place where orders are accepted, and include on its order form, a warning of copyright in accordance with regulations from the U.S. Copyright Office.
	The copy must include the notice of copyright from the work, or if no such notice can be found on the work, a legend stating that the work may be protected by copyright.

Supplying Copies to Other Libraries (Interlibrary Loan)
Who can copy?	Libraries or archives, including employees acting within the scope of employment.		§ 108 (g)(2)
	Conditions:	The collections of the library or archives must be open to the public or available not only to researchers affiliated with the library or archives or with the institution of which it is a part, but also to other persons doing research in a specialized field.
What can be copied?	Implicitly, works that may be copied consistent with Section 108 or other provisions of the Copyright Act. This code section is explicitly about the ability of a library to receive copies; presumably the copies are lawfully made.
	Conditions:	Section 108 generally bars systematic reproduction or distribution of copies, but that restriction does not prevent a library or archive from participating in interlibrary arrangements.
		The library or archives may participate in interlibrary arrangements that do not have, as their purpose or effect, that the library or archives receives such copies for distribution in such aggregate quantities as to substitute for a subscription to or purchase of such work.

		This quantity restriction was interpreted by the CONTU Commission to mean in most cases not more than five copies of articles from a single journal during one year. ⁵⁶
Purpose of the copy?	For receipt of materials through interlibrary arrangements.
	Conditions:	The reproduction and distribution must be made without any purpose of direct or indirect commercial advantage.
Medium of the copy?	Copies and phonorecords. See definitions below.
Other provisions?	The copy must include the notice of copyright from the work, or if no such notice can be found on the work, a legend stating that the work may be protected by copyright.

Copying During Final 20 Years of Protection
Who can copy?	Libraries or archives, including employees acting within the scope of employment.		§ 108(a); § 108(h)
	Nonprofit educational institutions that function as a library or archives.
	Conditions:	The collections of the library or archives must be open to the public or available not only to researchers affiliated with the library or archives or with the institution of which it is a part, but also to other persons doing research in a specialized field.
What can be copied?	Whole or parts of published works, during the last 20 years of any term of copyright.
	Conditions:	Only a single copy can be made.
		Based on reasonable investigation, the library has determined that each of the following conditions apply: (a) the work is not subject to normal commercial exploitation; (b) a copy cannot be obtained at a reasonable price; and (c) the copyright owner has not provided notice pursuant to regulations that either of the conditions set forth in (a) and (b) apply.
Purpose of the copy?	For preservation, scholarship, or research.

⁵⁶ The CONTU (National Commission on New Technological Uses of Copyrighted Works) Commission report, and the guidelines it offered for copying of articles, can be found at: <http://digital-law-online.info/CONTU/contu1.html>.

	Conditions:	The work may be reproduced, distributed, displayed, or performed for the allowed purposes.
		The reproduction and distribution must be made without any purpose of direct or indirect commercial advantage.
Medium of the copy?	In facsimile or digital form.
Other provisions?	This provision permits reproduction, distribution, display, or performance.
	This provision does not apply to any subsequent uses by users other than the library or archives.
	Copy must include the notice of copyright from the work, or if no such notice can be found on the work, a legend stating that the work may be protected by copyright.		§ 108 (a)(3)

Anti-Circumvention of Technological Protection Measures
Circumvention provisions?	Yes.
Prohibited Acts?	The Act of Circumvention?	The act of circumvention is prohibited.	§ 1201 (a)(1)(A)
	Dealing in Devices?	Manufacturing, importing, offering to the public, providing, or trafficking in circumvention devices is prohibited.	§ 1201 (a)(2); § 1201 (b)
	Providing Services?	Trafficking in circumvention services is prohibited.
Access Control or Owner's Rights Control?	Both. The provisions relate to technical measures that prevent access to a work or protect a right of the copyright owner.		§ 1201 (a)(2); § 1201 (b)
Exemptions that could be used by libraries?	Nonprofit libraries, archives, or educational institutions may gain access to a commercially exploited copyrighted work solely in order to make a good faith determination of whether to acquire a copy of that work for the sole purpose of engaging in conduct permitted by the copyright act.		§ 1291 (d)
	Conditions:	The copy may not be retained longer than necessary to make such a good faith determination.
		The copy may not be used for any other purpose.
		This exemption is only available where a copy of the work is not reasonably available in another form.
		This exemption does not permit an institution to manufacture, import, offer to the public, provide or traffic in technological measures.

		The collections of the library or archives must be open to the public or available not only to researchers affiliated with the library or archives or with the institution of which it is a part, but also to other persons doing research in a specialized field.

Miscellaneous
Unsupervised Machines	Library or archives is not liable for infringements committed from the unsupervised use of reproducing equipment on the premises, provided that the equipment displays a notice that the making of a copy may be subject to copyright law.	§ 108(f)(1)
Limitation on Remedies	Statutory damages shall be remitted against a library or archive, or an employee or agent, who infringes a work by reproducing it in copies, if the infringer believed and had reasonable grounds for believing that the use was within fair use.	§ 504(c)(2)
Relationship to Fair Use	Nothing in Section 108 of the Copyright Act affects the right of fair use under Section 107.	§ 108(f)(4); § 108 (f)(2)
	Nothing in Section 108 excuses the user of a copy received from the library or archives, or made on equipment at the library or archives, from liability for infringement if the user's actions or uses of the copy exceed fair use.
Relationship to Contracts	Nothing in Section 108 affects any contractual obligations assumed by the library or archives when it acquired a work for its collections.	§ 108(f)(4)
Audiovisual News	Nothing in Section 108 limits a library's or an archives' ability to reproduce and distribute by lending a limited number of copies and excerpts of an audiovisual news program, subject to Section 108(a), subsections (1), (2), and (3).	§ 108(f)(3)
Fair Use	The fair use of a work, based on an application of four factors in the statute, is not an infringement of copyright.	§ 107
Defined Terms	"Copies" are material objects, other than phonorecords, in which a work is fixed by any method now known or later developed, and from which the work can be perceived, reproduced, or otherwise communicated, either directly or with the aid of a machine or device. The term "copies" includes the material object, other than a phonorecord, in which the work is first fixed.	§ 101
	"Phonorecords" are material objects in which sounds, other than those accompanying a motion picture or other audiovisual work, are fixed by any method now known or later developed, and from which the sounds can be perceived, reproduced, or otherwise communicated, either directly or with the aid of a machine or device. The term “phonorecords” includes the material object in which the sounds are first fixed.
