Re: C SCIT 2580

Dear Mr. Roach:

In response to this circular I can report that our answer to question 1 is NO, i.e. the entry for SE is correct.

However, perhaps the historical contents of the annexes should be studied. The annexes have some historical information, e.g. we give information on our pre 1973 system. This information can be useful in some cases. But perhaps not for the (most common?) user that checks recent information. If the annexes were split up into two parts, one giving the information of today and one giving historical information, the annexes might be easier to use.

I am aware of your workload, so I do not make a formal proposal for a study of the "layout" of ST.10/C. I just want to share my thoughts with you.

Best regards

Leif Stolt
