

Antonio A. Arantes B.A., M.Sc. (Sao Paulo University, Brazil) PhD (University of Cambridge/Kings College) is professor of social anthropology at UNICAMP – State University of Campinas, Brazil, and director of Andrade e Arantes Consultancy. Is Past-President of the Brazilian Anthropological Association (ABA) and the Latin American Anthropological Association (ALA). His expertise on public policies and cultural heritage was consolidated in consultancy assignments to several programs developed by non-governmental, governmental and multilateral organizations such as UNESCO and WIPO. He developed significant professional experience in policymaking and management of public institutions as President of the Sao Paulo State Council for Historic Preservation (CONDEPHAAT) and of the Brazilian National Institute for Historic and Artistic Heritage (IPHAN). Under his presidency in IPHAN the Department of Immaterial Heritage and the National Program for Immaterial Cultural Heritage were implemented. He gave workshops on cultural heritage inventory methods in Brazil, Madagascar and Mozambique, developed several academic research projects, and published books, articles and technical reports about cultural heritage in the context of contemporary social experience and on related subjects. Relevant intellectual contributions in the field to cultural heritage also include the development of the methodology adopted by the Brazilian Ministry of Culture for the National Inventory of Cultural References, as well as papers presented in national and international experts' meetings, particularly in France, Japan and India.